MARGARET CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY WITH PICNIC

PRINCESS MARGARET

BALLATER, Scotland (Reuters) — Telegrams, greetings and flowers poured into Balmoral Castle today for Princess Margaret's 29th birthday.

The princess who, like her mother, was born in Scotland, has spent all her birthdays at Balmoral since she was seven.

Prince Charles, 10, and Princess Anne, 9, usually buy their "Aunt Margot's" birthday presents here—often a piece of jewelry.

The family present-giving took place at breakfast this morning.

Later, the whole family—the Queen, Prince Philip, their two children and the Queen Mother—was expected to join Princess Margaret in a birthday picnic on the Balmoral estate.

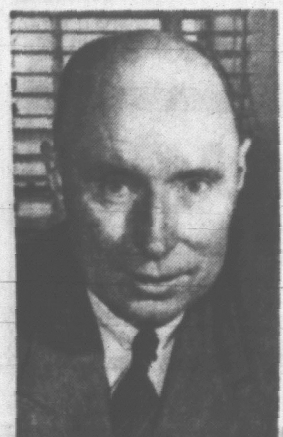

Tonight, after the children were put to bed, a birthday dinner was planned.

MUST 'THINK IT OVER'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Gordon Shrum says he does not know whether he will accept appointment as chairman of British Columbia's new energy board.

... not yet notified

He said in a telephone interview from Copenhagen, Denmark, Thursday night he was taken by surprise when he heard of the appointment to the board that was recommended in a royal commission he headed.

The report of the commission, which investigated the question of public power in the province and the crown-owned British Columbia power commission, was released Wednesday.

Asked about the appointment, Mr. Shrum said: "I don't know whether I will take it or not. I have received no official notification and I will have to think it over."

NO AMBIGUITY

He said there is no reason why conflicting conclusions should be drawn from the royal commission report.

"The report is not ambiguous if taken as read. Our conclusions were drafted with utmost care to avoid ambiguity."

He said he would not comment on H. Lee Briggs, former power commission general manager, other than what was contained in the report.

"It would be most unfair to the other royal commission members to make any statement collateral to our report."

Dr. Shrum is attending a scientific convention in Copenhagen and is not expected back in Vancouver until Sept. 12. He is dean of graduate studies at the University of B.C.

Escapee Recaptured

VANCOUVER (CP)—John Richardson, 25, who escaped from Vancouver police station Wednesday while a charge of drug possession was being prepared by RCMP, has been recaptured.

Richardson told a civilian elevator operator he was wanted on the second floor of the building. He stepped off the elevator and escaped down a flight of stairs by the time the operator became suspicious and gave an alarm.

100 Feared Lost In Ship Sinking

MANILA (AP)—A Philippine inter-island motorship sank in stormy waters off the northern coast of Palawan Island, and first reports today indicated more than 100 persons may have died.

Archbishop Remains Free

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—The government today abruptly withdrew an order for the arrest of Msgr. Francois Poirier, Roman Catholic archbishop of Port au Prince.

The arrest order signalled a widening split between the government and the church in predominantly Roman Catholic Haiti and brought the threat of excommunication for leaders of this Negro republic.

MR. K. INVITED, CAN'T ACCEPT

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker said today Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was invited to visit Ottawa during his U.S. tour but was unable to accept.

The Philippine navy and air force launched rescue operations in what could be one of the country's worst peacetime maritime disasters.

Radio messages from the area in the west-central Philippines said the Manila-bound ship Pilar II capsized and sank early Thursday, 4½ hours after leaving the north Palawan port of Bacuit.

PICK UP SURVIVORS

First word came from a fishing vessel today, which radioed—it was picking up survivors.

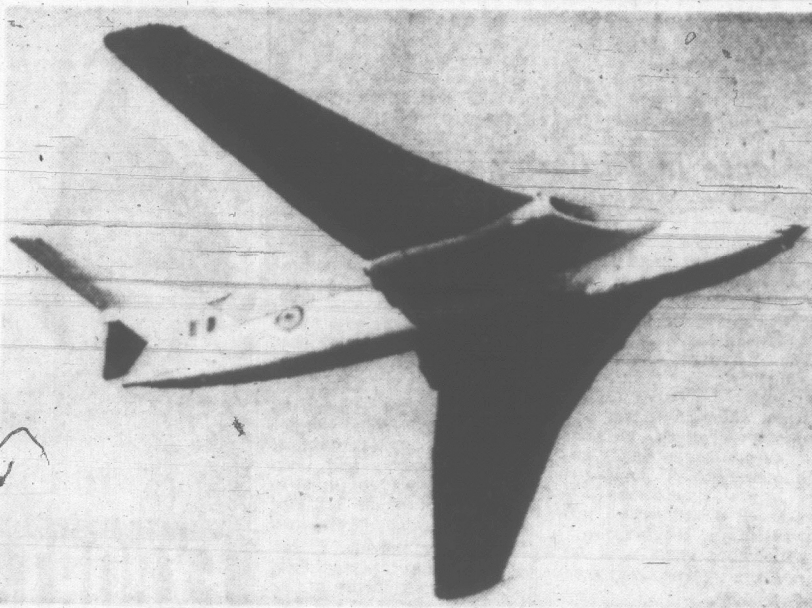

The civil aeronautics rescue centre reported only six passengers and five crew members had been rescued before night set in.

One surviving crew member was quoted as saying more than 100 persons were aboard the boat but this was not at first confirmed.

The weather bureau reported stormy conditions in the Palawan area during the last 48 hours due to fringe winds of typhoon Iris.

LIBERALS SWEEP NEWFOUNDLAND

'Joey' Plans 'Crusade' After Big Election Win

OTTAWA (UPI)—Parliament Hill today waited for the next round in the battle between Newfoundland and the federal government following Premier Joseph Smallwood's decisive Liberal triumph in Thursday's provincial election.

The Liberals took 31 of the 36 seats compared with 32 they held at dissolution. Progressive Conservatives held three, the United Newfoundland Party won two while the Newfoundland Democrats failed to elect a single member.

In a post-election speech, Smallwood reiterated his campaign charges that Prime Minister John Diefenbaker had purposely tried to toughen federal relations with the province because the Newfoundlanders rebuffed him in the previous federal election.

This was only a slight indication of "Joey's" intention to continue his fight. Observers predict a wider possible rift in relations between Ottawa and the newest province.

The greatest interest now lies in Smallwood's decision to introduce a resolution at the first session of the new legislature condemning the federal government's "betrayal" of Newfoundland by not continuing an $8,000,000 a year payment to the province recommended by the McNair royal commission which studied the financial terms of the confederation.

Mr. Smallwood said that if his motion is fully supported by the 36-seat House "I will introduce the resolution to continental Canada."

He said he would travel across the country to do this. But he said "it would not just be a trip across Canada. Canada has become a big boy now. You just don't make all the people aware by just making a trip across Canada."

'Something Rotten in the State ...'

"This election," Mr. Smallwood said, "will make the Canadian people realize there is something rotten in the state of Denmark."

The election victory was regarded as a personal triumph for the fiery premier in his continuing struggle with the Diefenbaker government over the financial terms of Confederation.

It was also a highly unfavorable indication of Tory chances in Newfoundland in the next federal contest.

Smallwood emphasized his fervent charges of "betrayal" against Prime Minister Diefenbaker by taking on and soundly defeating Conservative leader Malcolm Hollett in the latter's own riding of St. John's West.

The fall of this and other ridings in the formerly traditionally Conservative provincial capital was the strongest indication of the intense loyalty Newfoundlanders feel for the man who led them into confederation 10 years ago.

St. John's West, where Smallwood now rules provincially, is the federal riding occupied by Newfoundland's cabinet minister without portfolio William Browne, who with fellow Federal Tory James A. McGrath (PC-St. John's East) ardently supported the federal government's stand on the controversial Term 29 of Confederation.

It's not expected that the Liberal victory will alter the federal government's "irrevocable" stand on this and other issues which caused the serious rift in relations and resulted in the province slapping two lawsuits on the federal government.

But federal Conservatives were worried that the success of Smallwood's tilt at the Ottawa windmill in this election might see their toehold of two out of seven federal seats

Johnston Goes 4 Up

VANCOUVER (CP)—John Johnston, 33-year-old real estate salesman, moved into a commanding four-hole lead today at the halfway mark of his 36-hole Canadian Amateur Golf Championship semifinal match with Bob Kidd.

Johnston was three up after nine, lost the 10th and 11th but came back to win four of the next five holes and go five up. Kidd won the 17th with par and the two Vancouver Marine Drive clubmates halved the 18th, also with par. The 13th was also halved.

In the other semifinal, Ron Willey of Vancouver was two down to Gary Cowan of Kitcheener, Ont., after 18 holes.

Tear Gas Quells 300 Guelph Jail Rioters

SO NOBODY GOT CAUGHT

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver football fans have apparently reformed.

Dry squad detectives at Thursday night's Western Interprovincial Football Union game between British Columbia Lions and Saskatchewan Roughriders did not find one person consuming liquor.

After the season-opening game here between Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Lions scores of empty liquor bottles were found in the stands and police said drinking at games would not be tolerated.

Traffic officers said there were no charges of impaired driving laid after Thursday night's game. There were four after the first game.

GUELPH, Ont. (CP)—About 300 rioting prisoners at the Ontario Reformatory here were stopped with tear gas early today as their ringleaders stormed a dining room door.

Two guards were injured when the prisoners rushed the door. One of the guards, George William Andrews, is in the institution's hospital suffering a possible ruptured kidney.

Superintendent George Sanderson said the disturbance, the third in as many days, was over in 15 minutes.

The prisoners, herded out into a large yard, pleaded they had enough after police pelted them with tear gas.

The 300 prisoners were in the dining room for breakfast when the sudden flareup began. Shouting and chanting, the men threw dishes and plates at windows and milled about. The unarmed prison guards were powerless.

Provincial police reinforcements arrived just after the rioters had been driven out into the yard with non-rioters.

About 40 men rushed the dining room doors from the prison yard and two guards were injured in the general rush. Police and guards fired tear gas bombs.

Minutes later Mr. Sanderson with an armed guard, went into the compound and identified 40 ringleaders of the riot who were carried off to solitary confinement.

Mr. Sanderson reported later things had returned to normal.

Hope Diamond Hex Holds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Hope diamond, given to the Smithsonian Institution last year by a New York gem dealer, has a sinister history. It is supposed to have brought death, misfortune or insanity to a long string of owners.

When jewel merchant Harry Winston gave it to the government museum last November he sent it by mail. James G. Todd, 35, was the mailman who delivered the 44½-carat diamond.

Since then, these things have happened to Todd:

Canada's Money Policy Rapped

LONDON (CP)—The Spectator, a weekly magazine, suggests the time has come for the Canadian government to "drop its crazy obsession with monetary cures" and to rely more on direct controls to restore the country's exchange equilibrium.

"Surely it is unsound to encourage a further inflow of foreign capital by raising the bank rate to this absurd level of 6.4 per cent," says Nicholas Davenport, the magazine's financial editor, in a 1,000-word discussion of Canada's monetary policy.

Davenport says the present policy encourages foreign capital to flow into the country and Canadian capital to flow out of the country.

"All this is causing great anxiety in Canada among those who dislike seeing the ownership of so much of the domestic wealth pass into foreign hands."

He adds that last year the sale of securities abroad totalled $680,000,000, of which $600,000,000 or 88 per cent was taken up by the United States.

"This makes Canada extremely vulnerable to any financial or economic crisis in the United States. As soon as trouble develops in Wall Street the liquidation of Canada securities will be the first line of defence for the American speculator."

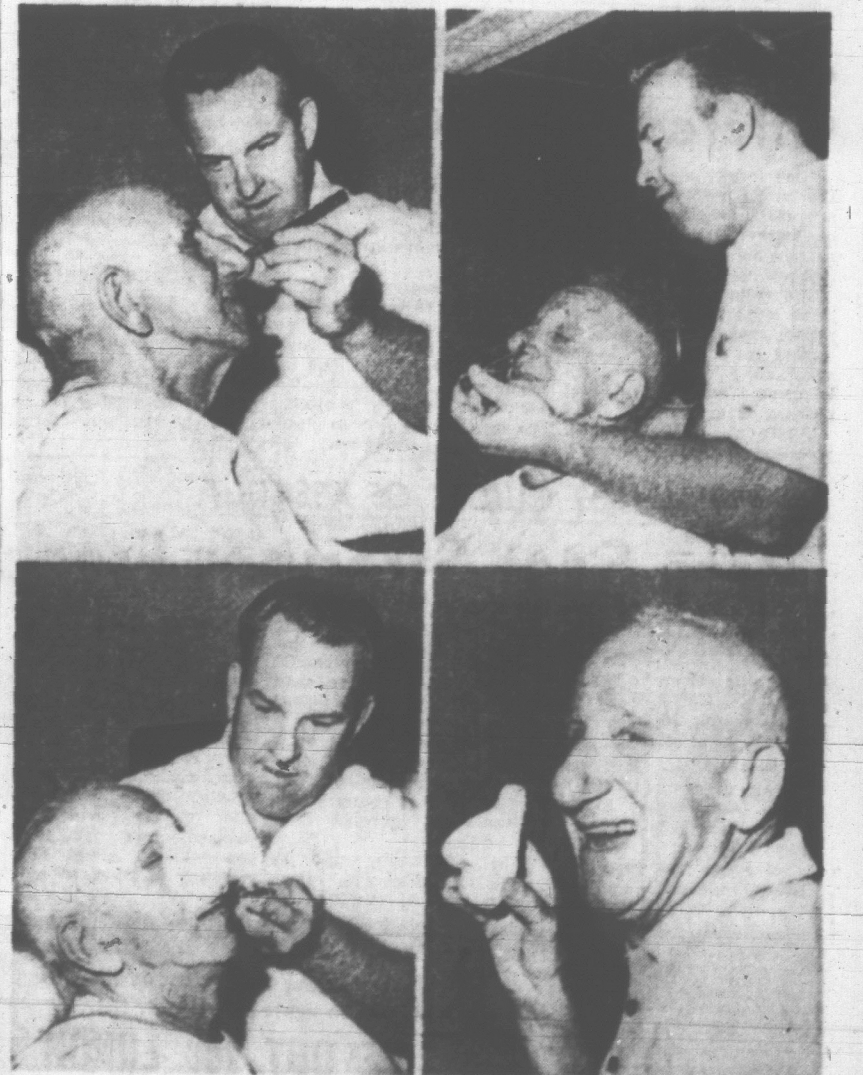

"And it will be a sad day for Canada if the liquidation falls upon the oil and gas stocks which have already sunk to very low levels."

VIENNA—A teenage Hungarian probed his way across a border minefield with a knitting needle to escape into Austria, police reported today.

The 17-year-old youth's name was withheld to protect relatives still in Hungary. But police revealed the full details of the escape, which took place Wednesday night.

NEW YORK—Former president Harry Truman and comedian Jack Benny will team up again, this time on Benny's television show Oct. 18 via the CBS network.

The announcement said part of the program featuring the pair will be video-taped at the Truman Memorial Library in Independence, Mo. There was no mention of what they will do.

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — A computation expert says a mechanical brain some day will be used to write adult western television shows.

Dr. Allen J. Perlis of Carnegie Tech made the prediction here Thursday night at an international meeting of computation experts. He said it is one of several probable uses of electronic computers such as Univac.

TORONTO — Dr. Mackinnon Phillips, Ontario provincial secretary and acting health minister, issued a statement saying he had erred in endorsing a home-dispenser fluoride machine.

He withdrew his endorsement of the unit manufactured by an Ontario firm.

The endorsement, in a letter made public last week, said Premier Frost felt "there are

SAN FRANCISCO — Neckties made out of Kim Novak's lavender bed sheets are not selling so well.

Record Vote Beats Negro Election Hope

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A record white vote smothered the first all-out Negro political campaign in the history of this Mississippi River city of the Deep South.

Russell B. Sugarman, Jr., a 30-year-old Negro lawyer, finished second in a race for public works commissioner that had segregationists predicting what to them would have been a catastrophe.

The final count gave Sugarman 35,237 votes. He lost to a white "unity ticket" candidate, William W. Farris, by about 23,000 votes.

The predicted heavy vote for Negro candidates came as advertised, but the upsurge of the campaign spurred the total turnout Thursday to 129,868. The previous record for a city election was 86,370.

Rev. Ben L. Books, a Negro lawyer and preacher who ranked as a possible victor in the race for juvenile judge, lost by about 21,000 votes. He ran against three white candidates.

Market Stallholders Offered New Space

Nine former stallholders of the public market have been sent plans for an 11-stall open air market on the site of the present building, Mayor Percy Scurrah said Thursday.

The stalls would be open on three sides but covered by a plastic roof. They would be located in a row along one side of the parking lot that will be created when the market building is demolished.

Total cost of the project, proposed last week to city council by Ald. Geoffrey Edge, would be $1,500. Mayor Scurrah said assurance that the stalls would be occupied should be obtained before they are erected.

Farmer Construction, which has the contract to demolish the market building, is not expected to start the wrecking job for several weeks due to commitment of its heavy equipment on other projects. The firm has 90 days to clear the site for a parking lot.

NFLD. STARTS NEW WRANGLE

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (UPI)—A new federal provincial wrangle loomed in Newfoundland today—one day after Premier Joseph R. Smallwood's Liberals won a mandate from the people to carry on their fight with Ottawa on special federal aid.

Attorney-General Leslie R. Curtis said here that his department will see that the Notre Dame Bay fishermen whose nets were seized by federal fisheries agents for alleged infractions of regulations will be protected.

Curtis said, "In my opinion the act of the fisheries inspectors was absolutely illegal." He said he would be happy to have a test case heard to determine who is right.

Federal Liberals predicted a Liberal landslide in the next parliamentary contest.

Proponents of the "marriage" of the CCF party and Canadian Labor Congress into a new Canadian labor party were not reassured by the defeat of all candidates of the labor-sponsored Newfoundland Democratic Party. The CCF decided not to run in the election and backed the Democrats in the first political test of the CCF-labor alliance.

The win by two of the maverick United Newfoundland Party candidates was not unexpected because they resigned the Conservative party in support of Premier Smallwood's stand.

The only consolation for Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his colleagues was in the fact that the issues which whipped the Newfoundlanders up into Thursday's overwhelming demonstration of loyalty for Smallwood were more or less purely provincial.

The individual character and feeling of the Newfoundland people also sets them apart from other Canadian voters, and the defeat of the Conservatives in the Newfoundland election was not looked upon therefore as any great augury in federal or other provincial elections.

Father of 3 To Undergo Sex Change

WOOTTON, Eng. (Reuters)—A 45-year-old father of three children left his home here Thursday for a lengthy series of sex-changing operations in a London hospital.

Alec Dawson, who was wearing a white sleeveless blouse, a tight-fitting black skirt and earrings, told reporters: "When I come out of the hospital in nine months' time, I shall have changed my sex and my name. After that I shall make a fresh start."

Pushing a hand through his wavy hair, he added: "I have always had feminine characteristics. Even as a youth my friends called me Alice."

Dawson, a garage owner, said for years he had put off treatment for the sake of his family. But finally a London specialist had strongly advised an operation.

CALGARY (CP)—Discovery of a gas well with an estimated absolute open flow potential of about 1,200,000,000 cubic feet, was announced today by the British American Oil Co. Ltd. The well, B.A.-CPR Atlas 7-15 is located in the Dick Lake field, about 35 miles north and west of Red Deer, and 55 miles south of Edmonton.

Steel Peace Denied

NEW YORK (AP)—A spokesman for the Steelworkers Union president, David J. McDonald, said today reports from Gary, Ind., of a settlement in the steel strike "are absolutely without foundation."

son freed him, saying: "There is no evidence before this court to show that defendant Brown acted otherwise than as a kind, firm and judicious teacher."

The charge was laid on a complaint from the boy's parents. His mother had testified earlier that young Whiteflock was in hysterics after the strapping.

The magistrate said he could not agree with crown counsel A. G. Cameron of Trail that truancy was "a very minor offence."

He said the boy had been punished two days previously for breach of school rules. Brown, he said, was justified in increasing the strapping given Whiteflock.

Mr. Cameron said earlier Brown's action was reminiscent of the "principles of punishment in vogue in Nazi concentration camps and is revolting to all decent-minded people."

Paper 'Duped,' Apologizes To Briggs

A new controversy arising out of the lengthy Shrum commission report on the B.C. Power Commission has developed today.

A leading Vancouver newspaper (the Sun), in a front page editorial Thursday apologized to H. Lee Briggs, former general manager of the power commission itself, its consulting engineers and suppliers, as well as the general manager, and in addition the emergency need for speeding up the power projects at a time of general rising costs.

This report was based on Premier Bennett's advance "release" at Courtenay the previous night in which he had said Briggs was chiefly responsible for expensive errors in construction of power commission projects.

The paper confesses it was "duped" by the Premier's announcement. Subsequently the Shrum report text was released and made it clear that the excess costs must be blamed on quite a number of people, including the power commission itself, its consulting engineers and suppliers, as well as the general manager, and in addition the emergency need for speeding up the power projects at a time of general rising costs.

It is also the opinion of the Shrum report that Mr. Briggs was right when he said that the proposed refinancing scheme for power commission loans was put forward by the government so it could justify its claim that it was paying off the direct debt.

Variance in Testimony Cited

This was the basis of the original charge by Mr. Briggs, who at the same time claimed the government proposal would mean added debt costs for the power commission which would have to be paid in power rates.

The Shrum commission ruled that the government plan was a fair basis for discussion, although it was subsequently changed considerably before being finally put into operation. It suggested Mr. Briggs' opposition to it was based on a possible misconception and also because of a personality clash with Dr. J. V. Fisher, government economic adviser.

However the commission sides with Mr. Briggs in his assertion it was brought about because of the government's "clear the direct debt" policy.

It states: "The evidence may be summarized ... (that) the primary reason for the government proposing the re-arrangement of finances relative to the government cash advances to the power commission was to meet the plans of the government for disposing of the government's direct debt."

This view, says the report, was supported by a memo sent by T. H. Crosby, former power commission chairman, reporting to Briggs on a meeting he had with Dr. Fisher and C. J. Ferber, comptroller-general.

The memo said in part: "I stated we considered it simpler to avoid the complication of this new financing and (suggested) that we continue to service the debt as outlined (in a previous memorandum)."

"Dr. Fisher and Mr. Ferber both stated that this would not meet the requirements of the plan for disposing of the government's direct debt."

The Shrum report pointed out that Crosby's memo was "at variance with the evidence" presented to the royal commission by Dr. Fisher.

"He (Fisher) indicates (in his testimony) that the proposed rearrangement of finances had 'nothing whatsoever' to do with the government policy in respect to discharging the net debt."

SLAYER DIES WITH SMILE

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Stephen Nash, confessed killer of 11 persons, died in San Quentin's gas chamber today, smiling at the prosecutor who sent him there.

Just before the gas pellets were dropped, Nash said: "Unfortunately I've never been able to live like a man. However, I expect to die like a man."

Then he winked at J. Miller Leavy, deputy district attorney of Los Angeles County.

The gaunt, hypnotic-eyed knifer spent the last two of his 36 years of life in isolation on death row—isolated because fellow murderers sickened of his boast that he killed at least 11 men and boys.

He never had a visitor, and there was no one to claim his body.

Looting Feared In Quake Area

WEST YELLOWSTONE PARK, Mont. (AP)—National guardsmen moved into this earthquake-ravaged area today to prevent possible looting.

The death toll meanwhile reached nine. Mrs. Ray Painter, 42, of Ogden, Utah, died Thursday in hospital. She was hurt when the earthquake split a mountain and sent it thundering down on Rock Creek camp ground and into the Madison River.

Search officials fear other campers may be entombed in that massive landslide. Army engineers are expected to decide soon whether to attempt to move the 50,000,000 tons of rock, earth and debris.

In addition to the known victims, Mrs. Thomas Stowe of Sandy, Utah, is missing and presumed dead. Her husband was killed.

SANDPOINT, Idaho (CP)—Eugene Job of Medicine Hat, Alta., drowned in a slough Thursday only seconds away from rescue by two farmhands who had saved his wife from the top of their submerging car.

PRINCIPAL NOT GUILTY OF ASSAULT

Bare Seat Strapper Freed

CASTLEGAR, B.C. (CP)—School Principal William Roy Brown, who strapped a 14-year-old boy's bare buttocks for playing hooky, was acquitted Thursday night of a charge of assault.

Brown gave eight strokes with a leather strap to the partially bare behind of Anthony Whiteflock on the last day of school this year.

Brown broke down and wept when Magistrate T. S. Daw-

Smallwood Scores Sweeping Victory

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Joseph Smallwood won a strong mandate Thursday from the Newfoundland electorate in his campaign to convince the Canadian people that the federal government had betrayed his province.

It was an easy victory for the controversial premier who scored his fourth successive election victory since leading Newfoundland into Confederation 10 years ago.

PROVINCE "BETRAYED"

"Canadians are noted for their tradition of fair play," the jubilant premier said in a victory statement. "It is very strong in Canada and we want to arouse the people of Canada to the fact that Newfoundland has been betrayed."

The voters answered Mr. Smallwood's plea to wipe out the "present" Progressive Conservative opposition leadership in the legislature by defeating the two members sitting as PCs at dissolution.

Mr. Smallwood, who left the Bonavista North seat he held since 1949 to challenge Conservative leader Malcolm Hollett in St. John's West, won easily and was the first of his cabinet to be re-elected.

He outpolled the PC leader 4,347 to 2,298. District returning officer Eric Seymour said the only poll in which Mr. Smallwood did not get a majority was a home for aged.

Mr. Hollett said the premier's attempt to eliminate the Progressive Conservatives "failed completely." The party still formed the opposition. "Actually Smallwood put new life into the PC party."

A second Conservative member of the last house, Rex Renouf, was defeated by John O'Dea of the United Newfoundland party.

The UN party, making its first election try, elected three members but lost its founder, James D. Higgins. Mr. Higgins, who with A. M. Duffy quit the Conservative party to back Premier Smallwood's resolution condemning Ottawa's decision to end the special financial aid to the province in 1962, was beaten by Conservative James Greene in St. John's East.

Mr. Greene was counsel for the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) during a loggers' strike in Central Newfoundland this year.

LABOR UNSUCCESSFUL

A drop in the popular vote of the Liberal and Conservative parties went to the splinter UN and Newfoundland Democratic parties. The ND, created by the Newfoundland Federation of Labor and backed by the CLC, failed to elect any of its 19 candidates. In labor union areas Liberal candidates received big majorities.

Ed Finn Jr., ND party leader, was beaten in western Newfoundland's Humber West by Labor Minister Charles Ballam.

ND candidates, pledged to rescind controversial legislation passed during the IWA strike against the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company, lost by wide margins even in areas where the labor vote was considered strongest. Supporters of the premier in the strike won handsily.

Mr. Smallwood called the election after failing to win unanimous legislature support for a resolution which said the federal government had betrayed Newfoundland by passing a bill which would end the province's "perpetual special aid in two years."

Mr. Hollett urged Premier Smallwood in an after-election statement to try "to co-operate more fully with the Diefenbaker government." He said both political leaders should "bury the hatchet and fight for Newfoundland."

It is doubtful whether Mr. Smallwood could win full endorsement from the legislature for another motion condemning Ottawa. PC candidates had subscribed to Mr. Hollett's statement that the federal government would not desert Newfoundland financially after 1962.

Liberal candidates elected include William Smallwood, the premier's son, in Green Bay. He won handsily over PC and ND nominees.

LABOR LEADER DISAPPOINTED

Principles Not Changed by Vote

OTTAWA (CP)—Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, expressed disappointment at the defeat Thursday night of candidates in the Newfoundland general election supported by the Newfoundland Federation of Labor.

Mr. Jodoin said he is disappointed "in the sense that the principles of democracy have to be recognized. The freedom of choice of workers, not only in Newfoundland but all over the world, must be recognized. On that principle, it might be a grandiose victory for some individuals this evening but the principle doesn't change." His statement referred to a chief issue of the campaign—decertification of two Newfoundland locals of the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) by the Newfoundland legislature under legislation sponsored by Premier Smallwood whose Liberals were swept back into office.

BONE OF CONTENTION

Newfoundland's Terms of Union

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Here is Term 29 on the terms of union under which Newfoundland became a province of Canada in 1949—central plank in the platform on which Premier Smallwood called Thursday's election:

"In view of the difficulty of predicting with sufficient accuracy the financial consequences to Newfoundland of becoming a province of Canada, the government of Canada will appoint a royal commission within eight years from the date of union to review the financial position of the province of Newfoundland and to recommend the form and scale of additional financial assistance, if any, that may be required by the government of the province of Newfoundland to enable it to continue public services at the levels and standards reached subsequent to the date of union, without resorting to taxation more burdensome, having regard to the capacity to pay, than that obtaining generally in the region comprising the Maritime provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island."

The royal commission called for by the term was appointed in 1957 and reported in 1958. It recommended additional financial assistance of $8,000,000 a year, less certain sums already being paid as a transitional grant, for the fiscal years 1957 to 1960, inclusive; and "thereafter $8,000,000 per annum."

Federal legislation to cut off this special assistance in 1962 and then review the situation sparked Premier Smallwood's decision to go to the people for backing in his fight for grants in perpetuity.

Newfoundland's Answer

IN CALLING A SNAP GENERAL election Newfoundland's Premier Joseph R. Smallwood had two objectives in mind. He wanted to prove that Prime Minister Diefenbaker had been wrong in deciding to discontinue Newfoundland's special federal grants after 1961; and he wanted to prove his own rightness in prohibiting activities of the International Woodworkers of America in his province.

Both propositions still remain debatable. But there can be no question that a majority of the people of Newfoundland agree with "Joey's" interpretation of the facts. In a landslide of ballots they have returned him to office with all his cabinet and a total of 30 Liberal seats in the Legislature of 36. Two other seats went to the United Newfoundland Party with which Mr. Smallwood had an arrangement, and against which he ran no candidates in the St. John's ridings.

The Smallwood-Diefenbaker feud has been a bitter one, fought out on a personal plane. It is not likely that the election results will lessen it. Premier Smallwood, indeed, announces that he will tour Canada, campaigning for Newfoundland's rights in the matter of federal grants, if the new Legislature backs his proposed resolution condemning Ottawa's handling of the matter. This would be an unprecedented action, opening new possibilities in the field of federal-provincial politics.

It may be said, of course, that in returning Premier Smallwood for the fourth time since Newfoundland entered Confederation ten years ago, the voters were merely affirming their traditional Liberal sentiment; that the result would have been the same regardless of the issues at stake. But Newfoundland feelings have been deeply stirred; the federal issue was an important one. The people of the newest province, people with a proud tradition of independence and unity, closed ranks against what they considered injustice from the national capital.

The Struggle Continues

THE FLIGHT OF THE DALAI Lama from Tibet earlier this year and the savage crushing of the Tibetan rebellion against Red Chinese control appear not to have brought peace to the country. Reports from the border area tell of preparations for another uprising against Communist Chinese domination and the house arrest of the Panchen Lama, whom the Chinese installed as a replacement for the exiled leader.

The Tibetan situation is particularly complex, involving as it does not only religious controversy but age-old feuding with the neighboring Chinese. In addition many Chinese are adherents of the Tibetan religion and feel a greater call to support the Dalai Lama than the Peiping Government which drove him out after an unsuccessful effort to capture him.

When over this is spread Peiping's ideological campaign to force Communism on the Tibetans, the welter of opposing forces makes the situation difficult for an outsider to understand.

One thing, however, seems clear. Communist domination, no matter how placatingly introduced, can stop at no half measures. It must have full control or nothing, and will go to any extent of ruthlessness—as Tibetans, Hungarians and others know—to achieve its aims.

Let's Regain the Lead

THERE IS WRY SATISFACTION for Victorians to read that the city of Kalamazoo, Michigan, now has a downtown mall in use, complete with lawns, garden plots and concrete plazas. The park-like area is in the heart of the business district and is the first permanent one to be built in a United States city.

Let's Regain the Lead

Victoria was among the leaders on this continent in plans for a similar mall. The citizens voted in favor of creating the mall and in favor of the method of financing proposed by the city council. Only the efforts of one man and the court stoppage he initiated — for reasons never yet properly explained — tied the project up in a legal wrangle and lost the city at least a year.

At the next civic elections the public will have another opportunity to vote this progressive and imaginative plan into existence. Already such communities as Toledo, Ohio; Springfield, Oregon, and Grand Haven, Michigan, have built malls on an experimental basis. Let all voters get behind this plan on voting day and make a reality of one of the best improvements Victoria has ever had a chance to provide.

To Meet the Greater Demand

IT IS WELL KNOWN TO WATER Commissioner Ron Upward, and to anyone who has read his reports over the past years, that Greater Victoria will soon be faced with a major expenditure for a water pipeline between Sooke Lake and the city.

It costs nearly $30,000 a year to plug leaks in the present concrete line which was installed before the First Great War, and even with constant care it still loses about three million gallons a day of the 17 millions poured into it at Sooke.

With the population at the present level this loss is not serious. We are rich enough to be able to afford a hole in our wallet. But the day will soon come when this water will be needed; when, indeed, the capacity of the present pipe will be exceeded and a new one must be built.

This was emphasized by Mayor Percy Scurrell, chairman of the water board, this week, when he pointed out that with 140,000 customers served by the board today, the system is within 3,000 customers of its capacity. New local reservoirs could boost the possible total to 160,000, but the eventual answer to continued growth must be replacement of the present pipe line.

Part of this project would be provision of a 29,000-foot tunnel and the forward-looking Commissioner has already done preliminary work on this. A still later development—but it could be within 10 years—would be construction of a new line from the tunnel to Royal Oak and thence connection with the Greater Victoria mains.

Cost of the tunnel and new line would be approximately $11 millions, partly to be paid for by the influx of new customers which would make it necessary, and partly no doubt by a slight rise in water rates.

The alternative would be a steadily decreasing water supply to individual consumers, recurring summer shortages, and an ultimate rush job, probably at greater expense, to catch up the time that had been lost.

WHAT COMES UP MUST GO DOWN?

What's the Gardener Eating, or Vice Versa

By B. A. TOBIN

WE love to speak in a general way of man's conquest of nature. We look at the rivers tamed, the forests cut, the deserts irrigated, the mountains moved by faith in a profit on the investment, and we flex our technological biceps and think, "We've got it licked." But this is only the general picture. Look a little closer, bring the focus down to the individual level and you will find thousands of silent, bitter little personal battles being waged by man against nature and being lost, undeniably and irretrievably lost.

Tobin

I refer, of course, to gardening. The battlefields may be seen on every hand, littered with the corpses, the wounded and dying, the vegetal wreckage of the never-ending struggle.

Easy Beginning

It all starts out so well, too. You win hands down at first. Turning over the sod in spring, covering up all the weeds with nice black earth, it looks like an easy victory.

The vegetable plot is raked and smoothed. Its moist surface invites all kinds of dreams of the produce to come. In fact, it looks so nice once the planting is completed it seems a shame in some ways that a lot of green growth is going to mar its level beauty.

Sooner or later the little green shoots show themselves and you nurture them like babies. The tiniest vest of grass, the merest suggestion of chickweed, is immediately whisked out of the earth so as not to waste a single vitamin on weeds.

By the time the rows of green shoots are thick enough to attract notice—they do. They attract the notice of slugs, bugs, flies and some mysterious pests which apparently do not resort to either crawling or flying to get to the plants.

And the feasting begins. Each day the tiny lettuce leaves show another nibble taken out of them. The row of beets shows another gap or two. Another pea plant or two shrivels up. A bean sprout gives up the uneven struggle.

But the fight continues. Like a line of old-time infantry after the enemy's opening fusillade, the ranks sag and falter but hold. Muddy but unbowed they repel the invaders.

The bush beans and peas begin to branch out, the lettuce rallies what leaves it has left, the beets begin to look beet-like. It appears as though the bug and slug hordes have been beaten.

Then nature launches its second offensive. Drought. Day after day, week after week, the sky remains cloudless. The plants respond to the hot sun—a lot of them respond by withering. Long before this, of course, you have brought up the heavy water artillery. So has the rest of the town, and your expected barrage peters out in a trickle.

But no matter how long you leave the trickle on, it never seems to penetrate as the rain does. Besides that, you begin to weary in the struggle. Relentless nature, which never wearies, is gaining the upper hand.

Dry Belt

The corners of the garden show it first. Somehow the spray never reaches them and the drought establishes a beachhead at each corner and begins to march inland. But the plants, and you, fight on. Then nature launches the third blow.

That soil, which looked so rich and productive back in the spring, doesn't seem to be living up to its promise.

The nitrates, enzymes and things must be deficient, for the plants, having attained a certain size, appear destined to remain at that point for life—and that won't be long.

The soil bacteria in this particular spot must be as lackluster as a bunch of ever signed on for a growing season.

Other interests claim your attention, and you skip a watering night or two. The weeding falls behind; indeed, the plot now needs a few weeds to give it a greener appearance. The neighbors who were proudly invited to see the first sprouts are no longer welcomed. Asked if you have a garden this year you reply "Uh-huh" and let it go at that. And the battle now moves into its final phase.

Oh, you'll get vegetables all right, no fear of that. There'll be something to show for your summer's work—a dish of this and a serving of that; a salad or two perhaps, a few peas to claim as your own.

Beyond Comprehension

But you read the gardening columnists' talk of putting this and that down for winter storage, leaving a row of this or that in for winter picking—and you wonder what on earth they're talking about. They certainly can't be talking about anything on the earth that you own.

But you have learned something. Next year it will be different. You'll really look into this business of slug bait and insecticides. You'll read up this winter on soil components and really master all that fertilizer jazz. You'll buy another length of hose, too, and reach the corner sections.

Oh yes, it'll be different next year, just you watch. With all these new resolutions—and that new vegetable market that's opening down the road—you'll eat like a king all year.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Breaking With Tradition

Three cheers for Ruth Enke's piece on giving the new Royal baby a non-white name. It expresses a tolerance and saneness we've come to expect from her.

However as she writes "such a name would break with tradition." I'd like to remind her the British Royal Family has always been valiant breakers of tradition as well as making it.

For example Edward I (1270), known as Longshanks, also the English Justinian (lawgiver), carefully arranged for his queen to give birth to their child (who happily turned out a boy) at Wales' Caernarthen Castle, presented him to the conquered Welsh as Prince of Wales, and gave him the name of Wales' patron saint.

Queen Victoria's favored and most trusted adviser was Benjamin Disraeli, one of a race that until her time hadn't even been allowed to sit in Parliament.

King Edward VII got into no end of hot water because so many of his friends were Jews.

For 40 years one of the late Dowager Queen Mary's ladies-in-waiting, and close friend was the Dowager Lady Swathling, a practising Jewess (still living).

Breaking with tradition is one of the things the British Royal Family does splendidly.

With reference to the alarming increase in accidents and deaths on the highways in this province, one can only regard a reported comment by Mr. W. A. C. Bennett to the effect that motorists are not obliged to drive 60 miles an hour on such sections of the highway as are zoned for that speed as both unrealistic and somewhat fatuous. Mr. Gagliardi's flat denial that the shocking increase of accidents and deaths is due to the permitted higher speed, though typical, is not valid.

Apart from the obvious lack of intelligence in zoning sections of the highways for a specified speed and then suggesting that they need not be driven on at that speed, both Mr. Bennett and Mr. Gagliardi (for if Mr. Gagliardi is not actually arbitrarily responsible for the 60-miles-an-hour zones, Mr. Bennett must have given his permission) must realize—and Mr. Gagliardi should know this from personal experience—that where it is permissible to drive at 60 miles an hour, many selfish and reckless people will take an opportunity to drive considerably faster. This in fact appears to be the general rule.

As evidence of this, on various occasions while riding in the car of friends, the driver of which has availed himself of permitted opportunities to speed up to 60 miles an hour, one has seen continuous lines of passing cars, some of which must have been obliged to attain and maintain for a considerable distance, speeds of from 75 to 80 miles an hour in order, on the rapid approach of a car on the other side of the road, to get back to his proper side ahead of already very fast-moving cars, to avoid a head-on collision.

Usually, long before the car in which one is riding reaches the end of the 60-miles-an-hour zone, all the cars that have passed are out of sight.

Such swiftly-passing cars as one has mentioned are usually of the modern, high-powered type, not usually driven by the admittedly reckless, younger generation. As for the drunken drivers, Mr. Gagliardi is reported to blame for the increase in accidents and deaths, although there are undoubtedly those who do attempt to combine drinking with driving, surely it would be pushing a theory too far to suggest that every reckless driver of every high-powered car is under the influence.

The experience of being passed at swifter speeds on a 60-miles-an-hour zone is, one believes, a common one; one has in fact, often been told of similar occurrences by other drivers. It would seem, therefore, that if there is any valid justification for the higher speed zones on our highways, some thought by those responsible for them should first have been given to the probability of such selfishly reckless behavior as one has mentioned and some provision made to deal with it.

What such a provision could be one does not know. One is merely a private citizen who in some small measure helps to pay the generous salaries of those whose business and responsibility it is to know.

FROM LONDON:

Diplomats Two by Two

SUMMIT conferences at which the leaders of the nations meet to secure "peace with honor" are nothing new in the history of diplomacy. Lord Beaconsfield's phrase on his return from the Congress of Berlin dates from 1878.

But these meetings, for good or ill, were generally concerned with decisive settlements of international disputes. What is new is the notion that the mere forwarding of intercourse among the powers calls for periodic summit meetings, and that these meetings in turn require the preliminary escalating of a series of regional "summits" or even "peaks."

Thus we have President E. due to receive Mr. K., who in turn will receive him. But first President E. must reassure his friends Mr. M., General de G., and Dr. A. by conferring with them.

Lest, however, anyone should think that President E. is ganging up with these friends against Mr. K. or (alternatively) that the friends are delegating any of their independent powers to President E., General de G. sees to it that they do not all meet together.

Intricate Manoeuvres

But can President E. see General de G. in one place and the other two friends in another? Not a bit of it. He must first go to yet a third place and, rubbing his eyes in the morning light at the airport, talk to Dr. A. before winging away again at dusk to see Mr. M.

This can be interpreted either as a "success" for Dr. A. or, if you prefer, as a means of ensuring that President E., Mr. M., and Dr. A. do not look as though they were ganging up on General de G.

Meanwhile there are hints that Chairman M. would sorely like to see Mr. K. before Mr. K. sees President E.; and we know for a fact that somewhere along the line President E. will see Signor S.—Although, for a wonder, he is not being required to do it in Signor S.'s capital.

For the leaders of the nations as for the animals crossing Jordan, the rule is two by two.

What is one to think of these twosomes, or of the accompanying swarm of reporters for whom hotel rooms are being sought and who must try to turn each encounter into news?

Preliminary Encounters

Since the meetings between President E. and Mr. K. are in the first place not meant to bring about negotiations, the burden of the preliminary encounters must be hard indeed to define. Can't be that, personal courtesies apart, it could have been conveyed just as well by letter, through ambassadors, or even on the scrambler telephone?

In practice, however, the ordinary instruments of diplomacy have become devalued as, in the cold war period, the ends of diplomacy have become restricted. It takes bigger and bigger men to achieve less and less.

We have now seen it accepted as a commonplace that foreign ministers should be persons of secondary rank: of the four who negotiated for ten weeks at Geneva two were career diplomats, and of these one was roundly described by his master as a man who did what he was told.

So much for the notion so implicit in Mr. Dulles' journeys that foreign ministers could themselves settle something by meeting together. As for ambassadors, they have until now played some part in dealings among non-Communist countries, but this summer's series of "little summits" leaves one wondering where they will be as further Alps arise.

Secret Diplomacy

Partly all this is the fruit of Soviet wilfulness (though the Soviet rulers have at times been quick to use old-fashioned secret diplomacy when they wished to achieve something—as over the ending of the Berlin blockade).

More generally the fashion for summits has come of everyone's acknowledging, first, the unlikelihood of any early settlement of the East-West conflict and, secondly, the need to talk and draw the steam out of the conflict from time to time.

Rather than purposeful negotiations (which are liable to deadlock) summit talks are thus substituted for negotiations. The danger in the West is that people will expect them to bring about settlements and will either be disappointed or, worse, will deceive themselves into thinking that settlements have come about.

TO CROW ABOUT

English rookeries only rarely have more than a hundred nests, and only very rarely have more than five hundred, and one, as far as I know, has a thousand. Yet in Scotland there are many rookeries with over a thousand, or even two thousand nests, and the Crow Wood near Turrit in Aberdeenshire had just over six thousand nests in 1945, and this one, with the possible exception of some rookeries in Germany and Hungary, is the largest rookery in the world.

—James Fisher, organizer for an official rook investigation in Britain.

BUT NOT IMPOSSIBLE

There's no simple answer to any problem about people. Try to assimilate them and you are accused of steam-rolling their national life out of existence; try to preserve their national life and you are charged with preventing their natural development and treating them like something in a museum. There's no simple answer—but there are some things that can be done.

—Philip Mason, Director of the Institute of Race Relations in London.

Pause for Reflection

THE big blue heron is back stalking small fish in the shallows of the bay and the beach is returning to its regular, year-round occupants after summer's seasonal invasion. There is a nip in the morning air, the bite of a playful puppy with needle teeth.

Stott

This is the lull of late August, before the weather breaks and before the golden touch of Indian Summer lays a sort of divine melancholy on the shore and hillside.

Weeds grow lush in the untended garden, hiding the meagre harvest of earlier labors. The sea is ruffled by a breeze too strong for comfortable fishing and the few trollers who go out return to report the run not yet begun.

It's an in-between time. The flush of vacation enthusiasm has passed from school children whose frenetic energies converted the shore into a noisy, always moving panorama, and the older sun-worshippers have folded their blankets and left the sand.

A man gazes at the unwilling tasks before him in the vegetable patch—the potatoes to dig, the beets to gather, the pea-vines to burn because some blight seemed to afflict them this year. There are jobs so plentiful that he turns his back on them and wanders to the rocks to watch mountains changing color in the evening.

Where the small waves give undulant life to a kelp tangle and then move in to break crisply on stone, he can think of the pleasant days gone, perhaps look ahead to those simple enjoyments of an open fire, books—and music—indoors when the rains slash down from a grey sky.

At this pause in the season, too, he can note the change that comes to people, particularly the young, with a surfeit of summer pleasures.

He'll recall the resolute, though maybe transitory, decision of the youth who swung gaily through his last school year into a tangle of supps and summer study when the exams came. This year, the youth, has informed him, it's going to be different. He has sold his jalopy and is going to dig into his books. He says it with chin uplifted, determination in his face.

This has been going on for generations. Each late August, impressed no doubt by parental counselling and tired of the idleness of play, youths have been taking strong stands to improve themselves, to work at their studies, to forego the pleasures of the moment in the interest of long-term aims.

Sometimes the decision lasts. Conceivably it will be that way for more youngsters this year than in other Augusts. The schools have been tightening up. By the simple and old-fashioned technique of failing those who didn't cut the mustard, they have indicated to pupils that unless they work, there is no particular obligation on the educational authorities to carry them up and through higher grades.

They've been a little tougher of late than during terms of earlier years and the youngsters are beginning to appreciate that toughness.

How long will the attitude last? Only the individual can say. Far from the classroom a boy or girl forms his or her resolutions—far more in August than at the New Year. Only, resolutions are flexible.

And the adult, the man sitting on the rock, makes his own resolutions, too, knowing a little more fully than the youngster how fragile they are.

There are the books to read, the renovation job, or jobs, to be done on the house, maybe a small boat to build and a little more effort to be put into community work.

There is occasion to think on these things while the surge of summer living subsides and before the brisk activities of fall begin. There is occasion to realize, also, the difference between intent and performance.

Still, it's good for the soul, a sort of exercise in reflection and a mending of the well-worn garments of purposes not yet achieved.

In the meantime, the blue heron stalks small fish in the shallows—an example of patience and perseverance, a fitting symbol for this time of year.

SCARRED CRASH HELMET HIS BEST INVESTMENT

STOCKTON, Calif. (UPI)—Pilot Allan Blewett bought a crash helmet Wednesday—although he had never worn one in his hazardous work as a crop duster.

Thursday, Blewett's head was rammed through the dashboard of his plane when the craft smashed through two trees, sheared off a power pole and crashed on a road.

The pilot walked away from the crash without injuries. "It was the best investment I ever made," Blewett said, rapping his scarred helmet.

Secret British Jet Disappears

LONDON (AP)—Britain's latest top secret jet bomber took off for a routine test flight over the English Channel Thursday and vanished.

A British tanker reported sighting flares off Scilly Isles at the western entrance to the channel but search boats found only an oil slick on the surface of the water.

Later a search plane reported it had spotted wreckage in the area.

The Victor Mark II, reputed to be the world's fastest and highest flying bomber, carried a crew of five from its base at Boscombe Down in the south of England.

Warships and planes were pressed into a search for the plane. Ten destroyers and frigates were ordered to keep up the hunt all night.

The crescent-winged Victor made its maiden flight last February. Only one other Mark II exists.

Burns Prove Fatal

CALGARY (CP)—Walter Nichols, 19, died Thursday of burns and other injuries he suffered last Friday when the truck he was driving struck a power pole and caught fire. Burns covered 80 per cent of his body.

Chemical Warfare On Agenda

PUGWASH, N.S. (UPI)—Canadian-born Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton will sponsor a meeting of 25 of the world's leading scientists at his "Thinkers" lodge near this quiet Nova Scotia community from Aug. 24 to 30.

A delegation of scientists from both sides of the Iron and Bamboo Curtains will discuss the dangers to mankind of biological and chemical warfare.

The meeting will be one of a series of non-official get-togethers which were initiated by Eaton in 1957.

The Pugwash continuing committee, under the chairmanship of Lord Bertrand Russell, the famed English philosopher and mathematician, has announced that the purpose of the conference is to examine the potentialities of "biological and chemical warfare, both as weapons of mass destruction and as factors in increasing international tension through the possibility of smaller countries being capable of producing such weapons."

UN CORRESPONDENCE

By STANLEY BURKE

Negotiation by the People

NEW YORK—The Soviet Exhibition in New York has closed after a record six-week run in which it was seen by over a million people. Among the million visitors was Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

Burke

Technically speaking, the Russian Exhibition has no connection with the UN and no place, perhaps, in a UN column. Indirectly, however, the Exhibition has much to do with the UN because it reflects the changing political climate in which the UN must do business. Among the most interested observers at the Exhibition were hundreds of UN diplomats and staff members who, like Mr. Hammarskjöld, felt they should pay a visit.

Among other things, the fair seems to demonstrate that diplomats, for the moment, are on the sidelines. This is a period of people-to-people and politician-to-politician negotiation. The United Nations, essentially a diplomatic instrument, is suffering underemployment along with the diplomats.

UN people are aware that this summer has seen international developments of historic importance—Tibet, Laos, the Caribbean, and a major break in the cold war—but in none has the United Nations been involved. New disarmament talks are being planned and, again, the UN is not likely to be directly involved.

In the non-political field, both the Russian fair in New York and the American show in Moscow demonstrated the enormous curiosity and goodwill which both peoples have for one another. The two fairs were direct opposites but, oddly enough, the same criticism is made of both—they didn't tell enough about the people.

The Russians showed their Sputniks and machinery, displayed beneath a statue of a Soviet worker towering two storeys high. The Americans displayed their gadgets beneath their golden dome in Moscow. In both cases visitors came away vaguely disappointed. Neither machinery nor gadgets answered the basic question "what are they like?"

I went around the Soviet fair on the last night when both Russians and Americans associated with it were beginning the summing up process. They agreed that the massive machinery mart on the main floor wasn't very popular. (Although it may have conveyed the basic impression which the Russians presumably wanted to leave behind—"we are strong.")

People were much more interested in cars, clothes, food and, above all, the art display and hi-fi music. Presumably these gave them the closest feeling of getting to know the other people.

There was a giant model on display of the atomic ice-breaker Lenin with the following observation in the guest book beside it: "In the original Lenin, you had better change round the side lights!"

Sure enough, the port and starboard navigation lights were reversed. (But, of course, the Russians are extreme leftists—maybe it makes a difference.)

Lawns Ready for Seeding

In about 10 days time we shall start the fall seeding of new lawns, and that leaves us just enough time to make the final preparations.

Continue to keep the area moist enough for the weed seeds to germinate, especially those which are floating down on the surface every day.

Keep up the raking between waterings, lengthwise and crosswise, to obtain as level a surface as possible and an inch or so of fine soil for seeding. Should the soil need loosening (heavy clay) or binding (sand), peat moss or something similar will be required and it should be well mixed into the top four inches, possibly best done with a rotary tiller. Strive for 25 to 30 per cent peat moss and 70 to 75 per cent soil.

Too much peat moss can give the soil an acid reaction, especially if a tendency to acidity already exists, in which case blue whale is safer because it contains marl as a neutralizer. It is now a little late to think about screening the soil unless you can spend many hours a day to complete the job in a hurry. Even so, there is hardly sufficient time for the whole area to settle properly and then be levelled before seeding time. Regular raking should have removed all stones larger than the spaces between the teeth of the rake, and smaller ones which are left will help keep the soil open.

More important than screening the soil is to be reasonably sure no weed scraps, pieces of tar paper or rubberoid shingle, large stones or tree stumps, are within 18 inches of the surface. And this is where a geiger counter is useless.

Speculatives Show Activity at Toronto

Industrials retreated from their highs but still remained the leaders as the Toronto stock market moved up today in moderate trading.

Of the active speculatives the best wins went to Consolidated Northland, up 21 at 96 cents, Elder ahead 16 at $1.40 and Orchan 15 higher at 80.

Banks and steels were the pick of the industrials. Prices churned in a narrow range today on the New York exchange.

AT TORONTO senior mines gained with Hudson Bay up 4 at 52 1/2 and International Nickel ahead 1/2 at 96 1/2. Consolidated Mining, Steep Rock and Quemet added 1/4.

Hollinger led golds, up 1/2 at 32 1/2.

AT NEW YORK Walker Goodenham rose 1/2, International Nickel 1/2 and Seagrams 1/2. Canadian Pacific dropped 1/2 and Aluminium Ltd. 1/2.

On the American stock exchange, Scurry Rainbow Oil, Eureka and Preston East Dome were higher. Shawinigan lost 1/2.

AT MONTREAL prices were stronger with a number of gains more than a point under modest volume today on the stock exchange.

AT LONDON industrials remained the centre of trading interest on the stock exchange today.

Most sections of the market advanced but gilt-edged eased under small selling pressure. In rails, Canadian Pacific was firm.

Oils were firm and South African gold shares were selectively better.

AT VANCOUVER trading was very quiet with prices lower during the forenoon. Silver Ridge moved 3,000 at 3c. Torwest traded 1,000 at 42c. Trojan moved 1,000 at 10c. Mid West Copper traded 1,000 at 21c.

Copper Company Will Reorganize
VANCOUVER (CP)—Western Copper Mills Ltd. has announced a drastic administrative and financial reorganization. The company said a shortage of working capital, failure of expected markets to develop and difficulty in finding and training personnel were at the root of the moves.

The company, whose $8,500,000 copper fabricating plant opened on nearby Anacis Island Jan. 14, plans to raise capital through an offering of share purchase rights.

Boeing Announces New Jet Models
SEATTLE (AP)—Two new versions of the Boeing 707 jetliner have been announced by Boeing Airplane Co. They are the 707-120B and the 707-220B, both of which will be powered by turbofan engines.

Turbofan engines include a fan that acts like a short-bladed propeller to change the air velocity for greater thrust and fuel economy.

Gov't Acts to Reduce Bank Interest Rate

OTTAWA (CP)—The Bank of Canada interest rate declined this week from last week's all-time high amid indications that the government believes the importance attached to recent movements of the rate has been exaggerated. The bank announced that the rate it charges for the infrequent loans it makes to chartered and savings banks eased to 6.25 per cent from 6.41. It was the first decline in seven weeks.

Included in its announcement was a brief statement by Finance Minister Fleming saying that the government's decision to reduce next week's offering of treasury bills—to which the Bank of Canada rate is geared—reflects its view that "the recent rise in interest rates on treasury bills has gone farther and faster than conditions warrant."

The statement added: "At this week's tender, for the same reasons, a number of bids were not accepted as involving too-high interest rates."

Later, in an interview, Mr. Fleming told a reporter the government is reducing its treasury bill issue next week in the hope of bringing the interest rate on the bills down further.

"The effect of it the treasury bill rate has been greatly exaggerated," he said. "We've got a very sound economy in Canada."

He indicated his belief that undue attention has lately been focused on the treasury bill rate. He said there has been nothing like the movement in the treasury bill rate in the prices of other government bonds. They had remained far more stable.

There were indications from other financial sources that the main view in Ottawa is that the current interest-rate situation is only a temporary one, which might move downward as quickly as it rose.

Meantime, the Bank of Canada's latest weekly money market statistics showed that on Aug. 12 the money supply totalled $15,380,000,000, a decline of $22,000,000 from Aug. 6. But it was up $380,000,000 from Aug. 13, 1958.

This appeared to indicate that the Bank of Canada, which exercises control over the money supply, was unmoved from its current policy by last week's statement of the Canadian Bankers' Association.

The bankers said they would have to curtail their loans giving as the reason a combination of a central bank rate higher than the statutory 5 per cent maximum on the rate the chartered banks can charge their borrowers and the relatively stationary position of Canada's money supply.

At its present level, the money supply is about 4 per cent higher than it was a year ago and 17 per cent higher than two years ago. The low point this year was $13,075,000,000 Feb. 13. It has risen at a relatively slight but steady pace ever since.

FANCY, BUT FUTILE

Despite attempt of Baltimore's Bill Gardner to make back-hand tag, fleet Luis Aparicio of White Sox slides safely into third base with bit of daring base-running at Chicago Thursday. Aparicio later scored on passed ball but his efforts weren't quite enough for American League leaders, who dropped 7-6 decision to Orioles and had lead over Cleveland trimmed to 2½ games. (AP Wirephoto.)

Softball Rivals Must Try Again

Morrison and Mayos just don't want to be ousted from the Section One Senior Open Softball League playoffs.

The two teams have met three times in the double-loss elimination series and there has been only one clear decision.

On Thursday at Central Park, with the loser facing elimination, the two squads battled to a 2-2 tie.

The first game the clubs played also ended in a draw, but Morrison won the second clash, 11-5. Now they will try it again at 2 p.m. Sunday at Central Park.

Both teams have 1-1 records for the tournament.

At Heywood Avenue Park, in Section Two play, the decision was somewhat more clear cut.

Maycocks pounded Mac-

Nutts, 10-4, to win their best-of-seven series in four straight games.

Big inning of the game was the sixth, when both Roy Jones and Dick Smith ganged up on MacNutt hurler Larry Rose to smash home runs.

Smith's blast brought in three runs.

Tonight at 6:30, Tudor House and Six Mile House will mix it up in the deciding game of the best-of-five semifinal.

Both teams have won two games.

At Central, Farmers will play D&D Tire at 6:30 in a Section One game.

Nevada Nipper Helps Farmers Win Crown

Doug Little may come from Las Vegas, but his coach wasn't gambling when he put the eight-year-old youngster on the lacrosse floor Thursday.

Little helped Saanich Farmers to the midget division Greater Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association championship at Stevenson Park as he scored five goals to pace his team to a 13-7 win over James Bay in a sudden-death final.

He had never played lacrosse until he turned out for Farmers this year, but finished fourth in the midget scoring race.

Bill Cool scored three times for Saanich while Greg Schroefer got three goals for the losers.

"and I think he feels the same toward me."

While not quite so enthusiastic, Basilio concedes his worthy opponent really is a worthy opponent and undoubtedly will put up a good scrap.

The two have much in common. They're both family men, raised on farms. In fact, they're still farmers, in a sense. Basilio grows onions

Some of those 90-day "wonders" in the army were lulus, but even they couldn't keep up with Willie McCovey, who is leading the Giants to a pennant and bidding for the rookie of the year award within a brief span of 21 days.

Since reporting to the Giants only three weeks ago, the amazing 21-year-old McCovey has fashioned a fabulous .418 batting average.

Hardly a day goes by that he doesn't win a ball game for the Giants. Or a night, for that matter, too.

McCovey was doing business at the same old stand Thursday night when he drove in three runs with three hits, including a two-run homer, that beat the Braves, 5-3, and preserved the Giants' two-game lead in the National League race.

There was some talk they might "catch up" with Willie the "second time around." Well, the Braves were seeing him for the second time and they had no more luck with him than they did the first time.

SPAHN BEATEN

Willie Mays also chipped in with three hits to help Sam Jones notch the victory over Warren Spahn, who suffered his 13th loss.

The second-place Dodgers defeated the Reds, 8-5; the Pirates beat the Cardinals, 3-1, and the Cubs took the nightcap of a twilight twin bill, 6-4, after the Phillies won the opener, 8-5.

Ed Bailey's passed ball on a two-out third strike to pitcher Danny McDevitt paved the way for a seven-run fifth inning that gave the Dodgers their victory over the Reds.

After McDevitt reached first, Jim Gilliam singled, Charley Neal doubled, Wally Moon walked, Norm Larker homered, Chuck Essegian doubled and Ron Fairly singled before Willard Schmidt relieved loser Bob Purkey. John Roseboro then doubled home the seventh run of the inning. McDevitt was credited with his ninth victory.

INDIANS GAIN

In the American League, Cleveland topped Washington, 6-1; Baltimore beat Chicago, 7-6; Boston outlasted Kansas City, 11-10, and Detroit shelved New York, 14-2.

Jim (Mudcat) Grant beat his Washington "cousins" for the 11th straight time in two seasons without a loss while boosting Cleveland to within 2½ games of the top. Grant limited the Senators to three hits in winning his eighth game—six at the expense of Washington. Ed Fitzgerald and Woodie Held each homered off Pedro Ramos, who lost his 15th game.

The Orioles worked over seven White Sox pitchers for 13 hits, including four by Billy Klaus, in licking the league-leaders. Hoyt Wilhelm pitched the first six innings to post his 12th victory. Billy Leos hurled the last three. Chicago starter Barry Latman was the loser, although Baltimore scored its last run off rookie Ken McBride.

They are both aggressive in the ring, toe-to-toe types who rarely clinch.

The National Boxing Association sanctioned the Fullmer-Basilio fight after stripping Sugar Ray Robinson of the world title because of lack of activity. He hasn't fought since beating Basilio March 25, 1958.

Basilio calls Robinson "greedy and high handed."

"Who needs him now?" Carman asked. "We're fighting for the real title and he can have his two states"—a reference to New York and Massachusetts, the two non-NBA members that still recognize Robinson.

The NBA terms call for the winner of the nationally televised Basilio-Fullmer fight to take on the No. 1 challenger within 90 days.

Both say they'll fight Robinson if he's the guy. But not on his terms.

"I'd want our last purses reversed," Fullmer said. "If I take 47½ per cent and he can have the 12½ per cent. On second thought, let's cut it up by states. We'll give him 1 per cent for each state he represents. That means I get 48 per cent and he gets 2 per cent."

IN ACTION

At Vancouver to night for Victoria Shamrocks will be Jim McNeill, who injured foot in second game of Inter-City Lacrosse League semi-final Wednesday. However, Bob McKee, who suffered rib injury Wednesday, is doubtful starter for Rocks, who will be trying to wrap up third straight victory in best-of-five playoff against Carlings.

PERINI BACKS TEAM

Quebec Seventh Club In Pro Hockey Loop

NEW YORK (UPI)—Quebec City, with the influential backing of baseball magnate Lou Perini, Thursday was granted a franchise in the American Hockey League for the 1959-60 season.

The directors of the six AHL teams unanimously voted the Canadian city into the league after it had met league demands for a $50,000 entry fee and a $750 minimum guarantee for visiting clubs.

Perini, who owns the Milwaukee Braves' baseball team, is one of the directors of the AHL's newest entry. The president will be Ovide Cote of Quebec City.

Earlier in the day, the Montreal Royals withdrew their application for an AHL franchise for the coming season. They have an application on file for the 1960-61 campaign, however.

The league will open its 1959-60 season on Oct. 4, with teams in Buffalo, Cleveland, Hershey, Pa.; Providence, Rochester, N.Y.; Springfield, Mass., and Quebec City.

RETURNING to Western Hockey League as member of Vancouver Canucks for 1959-60 season is Bruce Carmichael, high-scoring winger who previously played with Victoria Cougars. He played with AHL's Springfield Indians, for past two years.

Hey, Take a Good Look! Lions Lead Grid Gallop

Janes Scores Three TDs As Leos Defeat Roughies

By The Canadian Press

This is known as flash-in-the-pan part of the season by wise men of football, the time when some clubs win, win, win only to lose, lose, lose when late-season pressure is turned on.

However, nothing can dim the elation of Vancouver fans today because the British Columbia Lions are at the top of the Western Interprovincial Football Union heap for the first time in their six-year history.

Neither the suddenly-furious Lions nor Calgary Stampede looked like quicksilver clubs Thursday night in winning games that put them in a first-place tie with Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Stamps, who lost a 22-21 decision to the Grey Cup champion Bombers Monday, reversed the result in Winnipeg by winning 23-21.

Lions, pre-game favorites for possibly the first time since they entered the WIFU in 1954, built up a 29-7 half-time lead and coasted to a 36-21 victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Both winners hit hard, fast and often and their victories did not look like flukes.

Calgary barely made the playoffs in 1957 after a world beating start. In 1958, the Stamps looked good early in the season only to be nudged from the play-offs by a poor finish.

Three Interceptions Help Lions

Roughriders added to their long injured list when defensive quarterback Ron Adam suffered a twisted ankle and a Schriever a broken nose.

The yardsticks had Saskatchewan ahead 28-19 in the first downs, 476-409 in yardage gained and slightly ahead in the percentage of completed passes. Riders completed 19 of 28 while Lions made good on 10 of 15. However, B.C. intercepted three passes to one interception by Riders.

A lateral intercepted by line-backer Ted Tully, then tossed to Nagle, accounted for one B.C. touchdown.

Calgary quarterback Joe Kapp, the California Express, did some hard running and threw one touchdown pass in guiding Stampede to victory before 18,327 fans in Winnipeg.

But it was the placement kicking of guard Doug Brown, a sophomore from Victoria, that provided the winning margin. Brown kicked three field goals and converted touchdowns by half Donnie Stone and defensive end Art Scullion.

Canadian fullback Gerry James paced Winnipeg with two touchdowns, one on a 44-yard burst through the Calgary line. End Ernie Pitts took a pass from quarterback Jim Van Pelt to paydirt and Van Pelt converted all three touchdowns.

The game produced one serious injury and one possibly serious. Calgary end Jack Gotta suffered a shoulder separation and is expected to be out a couple of weeks. Winnipeg's Van Pelt has a sore back and will be examined today to determine the seriousness of the injury.

Again the losing team had a statistical edge. Bombers had 21 first downs against 17 by Calgary. They ran up 253 yards passing against 132 by Stamps and were only slightly behind in rushing. Calgary had 167 yards to 164 by Bombers.

OUTDOOR REPORT

BY

Doug Peden

Despite some reports of big catches along Vancouver Island's west coast, a lot of people are beginning to believe forecasts that this will be one of the poorer coho salmon seasons for anglers operating around the southern portion of the Island.

Main reason for the pessimistic prediction is the fact that coho chasers had an unhappy time of it four summers back and many claim this will be a similar year. Adding to the gloom is the lateness of this year's coho run, which is expected to swing through our waters at least two weeks later than usual.

It was on Aug. 11 last year that a big gang of coho arrived off Victoria. They kept reels singing for seven days and other bunches came along steadily. This time the vanguard of the main run of silvers is not expected until at least the end of the month, but it could be a good September.

Except for Saanich Inlet and Deep Cove, where a fair number of coho, some big springs and lots of grills are hanging out, only an occasional silver is hitting lures between Saanich and Sooke.

Yesterday wasn't one of them, but there have been some good days in the Pedder Bay-Otter Point area during the past two weeks. Most of the catches are made up of humpbacks and springs with a few sockeyes and small coho tossed in for good measure. Some of the springs, like the 36-pounder that hit a Minnow Teaser trolled by Jack Seedhouse Wednesday, are of tackle-busting size.

Without their coho, the Oak Bay regulars have been a forlorn crew, but some fair catches of humpies and springs are coming in from the Esquimalt section. J. Jacques hooked a 28-pounder Wednesday off Macaulay Point and Don Oxbrough hooked a 21½-pound spring. Trevor Woodruff gave the Oak Bay boys hope of better things to come when he came in at West Bay Marina yesterday morning with a pair of coho taken off Trial Island, but it turned out to be another poor day.

Cowichan Bay yielded quite a number of good fish Tuesday and Wednesday but tapered off a bit Thursday. Frank Nosky of Ladysmith made the big news Wednesday, coming in with the biggest spring reported from the bay in the past two summers—a 42½-pounder which grabbed Frank's home-made version of a Strip Teaser. Jack Young pulled in a 34½-pound specimen Wednesday night.

Small coho and small springs are providing occasional flurries of action in waters north of Cowichan and around Campbell River, where a few big silvers are showing, and anglers running into roving schools of coho are taking quick limits.

However, most of the interest in that area is in the tyee fishing and although the big fellows are hitting a bit slower this week, they are still keeping some anglers happy. One of the happiest is Mrs. A. W. Carter, of Vancouver, who reeled in a 53½-pounder Thursday morning.

Mrs. J. Ferguson, Denver, took a 31-pounder Thursday and Mrs. W. C. Waddington came in Wednesday with a pair of 40-pounders. Among other tyee catches Wednesday were those made by Joe Hansen, Montreal (41), and Rufe Gibbs, Vancouver (33).

Port Alberni, which had hot tyee fishing last week, has been on the slow side for several days with just enough big ones trying conclusions with Tee spoons and Alaska plugs to keep anglers trying. The third week in August is traditionally a good tyee week at Port, so things could get hectic in the canal any morning now.

One of the best bets for tyee this weekend could be Comox Bay, and Qualicum Bay can be one of the better spots for big fish in late August.

Although grouse and deer don't come into season until Sept. 14 this year, the 1959 shooting campaign officially gets under way Sept. 1, when hand-tailed pigeons become legal targets. Which brings to mind that pigeon fanciers every year lose a few birds, some of them valuable, because some hunters either can't recognize a domestic pigeon or just have to shoot something . . . if you are looking for trout fishing, the upper half of the Cowichan River might be worth a try. A lot of big browns have been seen in the pools. Late evening or night fishing is usually the best way to get browns when water is low.

Shoot Cancelled

The Victoria Gun Club's Sunday shoot has been cancelled to allow Victoria gunshooters to compete in the West Coast Clay Target Championships at Port Alberni.

A large number of trapshooters from Victoria, Lake Cowichan, Nanaimo, Courtenay and Vancouver plan to attend the shoot, which starts at 10 a.m. at the Port Alberni Gun Club.

Uplands Triumph

Uplands Golf Club swingers won the annual women's competition for the Mrs. Howard Wilson Trophy Tuesday, defeating the Victoria Golf Club squad, 15½-8½, at the Oak Bay links.

Johnston Confident Kidd Next on List

VANCOUVER (CP)—"This is my last big chance to go all the way. And I feel lucky."

That was the way easy-going Bob Kidd of Vancouver, medalist with his four-under-par 138 and easily the odds-on favorite, described his position as he started the 36-hole semi-finals of the 55th Canadian amateur golf championship here. Today against Marine Drive clubmate John Johnston, 33-year-old real estate salesman.

In the other semi, tall Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., tackled Ron Willey, 1959 B.C. and Pacific Northwest amateur king.

A DANDY DUEL

The Kidd-Johnston battle shapes up as a dandy.

Both have played sub-par golf in the tournament. Both know every nook and cranny of the course. And both have been waiting for the meeting, especially Johnston.

The grudge battle dates back two years to the quarter-final round of the Pacific Northwest amateur at Marine Drive: Kidd came from two down to eliminate Johnston one up. He went on to win the title.

TWO-YEAR WAIT

"I've been waiting for him two years," said Johnston. "He's next on the list."

Kidd, a veteran of six B.C. Willingdon Cup teams and in his third amateur semi-final, is out to prove 1957 was no fluke.

"It should be a tough match," he said. "Johnny is confident . . . too confident."

Kidd's thirst for the crown was evident in the cold-blooded way he annihilated big Doug Bajus of Vancouver 5 and 4 in the quarter-finals.

SUPERB GOLF

Johnston also played superb golf, but had an easier opponent in George Holland of Seattle.

While the Cowan-Willey semi-final has attracted less attention, there is little doubt the contrasting styles and abilities will result in interesting golf.

The long-hitting Cowan, who has literally blasted his opponents out of contention. Thursday he eliminated Blake Cromb, 21-year-old Powell River, B.C., millworker.

Willey has been the dark horse threat from the start. He defeated Phil Brownless of Toronto 5 and 3 in the quarter-finals.

FIGHT RESULTS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Willie Pastrano, 153 Miami Beach, stopped Tom (Reddy) Davis, 211, Macon, Ga. 4-0.
TOKYO—Jiro Sawada, 160½, Japan, outpointed Hiroshi Shimada, 165, Japan, 10-0.

HOW THEY FARED

Results of Thursday's third and fourth-round matches in the annual Canadian Amateur golf tournament, being played at Vancouver's Marine Drive Golf Club:

Blake Cromb, Powell River, B.C., defeated Richard Giddings, Modesto, Calif., 4 and 3.
Gary Cowan, Kitchener, Ont., defeated Ron Woods, Vancouver, 5 and 3.
Phil Brownless, Toronto, defeated Lorne Smith, Dartmouth, N.S., 7 and 5.
Ron Willey, Vancouver, defeated Doug Reibling, Regina, 2 and 1.

QUARTER FINALS
Bob Kidd, Vancouver, defeated Doug Bajus, Vancouver, 5 and 4.
John Johnston, Vancouver, defeated George Holland, Seattle, 5 and 4.

Subject of Art World Furore Sculptor Sir J. Epstein Dead

monstrous?

LONDON (AP)—Sir Jacob Epstein, the noted sculptor, died at his London home Wednesday night.

The death was announced today.

Epstein, one of the most controversial figures in the world of art, was 78. Born on New York's East side to poor Russian-Polish immigrants, he lived abroad for most of his adult life and was a naturalized British subject.

He was knighted in 1954. Epstein's works were of two types—huge figures of enormous vitality and power which often infuriated the traditional-minded by what they termed their crudity, and portrait busts of a host of famous persons which were generally admired.

His mammoth Genesis and Ecce Homo, for example, split the ranks of art experts. Some considered him a genius.

Others shared the view of a critic who said Genesis was "fit only for a hat rack in a lunatic asylum."

In recent years Epstein virtually abandoned the exaggerations of his earlier career and became almost a traditionalist. "I have never liked controversy," he once told an interviewer.

Epstein had suffered from a failing heart for many months. In March, 1958, he went to hospital for a long rest but recently took a lively part in a new row over Ecce Homo.

At the time of his death Epstein was working on a half-length statue of Princess Margaret.

Sir John Rothenstein, director of the Tate Gallery of Modern Art, termed Epstein's death "an incalculable loss to British sculpture."

"He was by far the greatest portrait sculptor of his time," said Sir John.

Epstein's later bronzes were of such famous people as Sir Winston Churchill, Albert Einstein and Somerset Maugham.

BB (Worthwhile) AA (Oscar Class) B (For Rainy Days) A (Don't Miss) C (To put in time)

(A) "IT HAPPENED TO JANE" (Odeon)—Here is a comedy that is light as the cake mother bakes and just as nourishing under the pink icing and cute little candles. Success of this gift from Columbia's bake shop is owed in large measure to Norman Katkov's screen treatment, Richard Quine's deft direction and, in goodly measure to the principals involved.

First of all there is Doris Day, a widow (and very winsome widow) with two children. Secondly there is Jack Lemmon, her backward lawyer-lover. And, thirdly, there is Ernie Kovacs, railroad tycoon and a man who smiles in beastly pleasure at his own nickname, "the meanest man in the world."

Scarcely before the audience can say "laugh" the formidable forces of good (Day, Lemmon) are in mighty combat with the forces of evil (Kovacs).

It all starts when Kovacs causes Widow Day's lobsters to die (her only source of revenue). She sues him and his railroad, charging negligence, and wins her case. But dirty Ernie isn't through, not by a tooth sight. He appeals to a higher court and in retaliation the Widow Day "attaches" the train that runs through her town.

Now the battle is really joined as the widow becomes a national hero, thanks to the huge helpings of publicity from press, radio and TV. To America she represents the "little man" fighting the money barons.

FROM BEGINNING TO END this comedy runs as smoothly as a crack transcontinental, never missing the switches of laughter, heeding the signals for change of pace and arriving at its destination without letdown after an hour and 38 minutes running time. Peculiarly, there is still time in the busy schedule for a certain portion of suspense and heart-tug.

It is Kovacs' show. No doubt about that. His leer, his sneer, his adder-like smile contribute wonderfully to his delinquency. Once again Miss Day shows that she has other talents than that of a singer (although a couple of songs are thrown in for good measure). And once again Lemmon proves he can be almost as funny a boy as he was a "girl" in "Some Like It Hot."

KEEP OBSERVERS OUT OF LAOS

Red China Warns UN

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China warned today that "serious consequences" will follow if United Nations' observers are sent to Laos, where Red insurgents have been battling government troops.

China challenged Britain to accept the Soviet Union's proposal to re-establish the international armistice commission for Laos.

The Laotian government and Britain already have rejected the Red proposal.

In New York, Laotian envoy Ngon Sanankone and UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld were to meet again today.

U.S. PLOT

Quoting the official People's Daily, Peking Radio again charged that the United States is working behind the scenes to get what it called illegal UN interference in Laos.

Skirmishing flared up last month in the north Laotian provinces of Sam Neua and Phong Saly. The Laotian government charged that the rebels were being armed, trained and directed by Communist North Viet Nam, which borders Laos.

Laotian officials reported Thursday that Red sabotage and propaganda teams are spreading through the southern part of the jungle country, indicating possible preparations for an all-out offensive.

In Moscow, the Communist party newspaper Pravda said it is an "open secret" that the United States has taken virtual control not only of Laos' armed forces but of the country's entire economy.

SYMPHONY GRANT INCREASED

The Canada Council Thursday increased its annual grant to the Victoria Symphony Orchestra from $10,000 to $12,500.

Among other disbursements to cultural and art institutions across Canada, was a grant of $824,000 to the University of British Columbia for an addition to its library.

The symphony grant is to be used for summer and out-of-town concerts and to assist students serving in the orchestra with their musical studies.

FRIGHTENING CIGARET FIGURES

1 in 10 Gets Lung Cancer

SASKATOON (CP)—Ten per cent of cigaret smokers get lung cancer and 94 per cent of those stricken are dead within five years, a cancer researcher said Thursday.

Dr. W. H. Beaven, director of the Institute of Scientific Studies at Loma Linda, Calif., said the only persons stricken by lung cancer and still alive after five years are those saved by modern surgery.

These frightening statistics have been confirmed by United States cancer researchers, he told the Alberta, Manitoba, Saskatchewan School of Narcotic Studies at the University of Saskatchewan.

Yet the day after the announcement by the American Cancer Society of its findings on the relationship between lung cancer and cigaret smoking, a national poll found the great majority of smokers had no intention of changing their habits. This was convincing evidence that nicotine is a narcotic drug and that smokers are drug addicts, he said.

Accident Case Defence Cites Memory Loss

Motorist Mrs. Elsie K. Brown, 5417 West Saanich, charged with careless driving after her car ran over a five-year-old boy July 11, told a court Thursday she once suffered a "blackout" for several hours seven years ago.

Possible recurrence of memory loss may have caused the accident, in which David John Burdny was seriously hurt, defence counsel Alan Macfarlane submitted.

One police witness told the court Mrs. Brown said to him after the accident, "I don't know what happened."

The Burdny boy, son of city police Constable John Burdny, is still recovering and is now at home after three weeks in hospital. He had been playing on the front property line of his home at 1248 Reynolds when Mrs. Brown's car ran him down.

OUT OF CONTROL

Mrs. Brown said she did not see the boy in front of her car, which had already travelled over two front yards and was to go a total 320 feet out of control off the road before stopping in the middle of a holly farm at 1230 Reynolds.

James Elmer Brown, husband of the accused, told the court he had driven the car earlier that day and found no brake trouble, as suggested by a crown witness last week.

Mrs. Brown said, "I was startled by something or someone and the first thing I realized I was off the road. I remember clearly thinking, 'I must get the car stopped,' and I had difficulty doing so."

When she realized this she was already at the holly hedge of 1230 Reynolds, she told the court.

SLOW SPEED

Her speed, she thought, had been about 15 miles an hour.

Mrs. Brown said she had had a loss of memory or blackout in 1952, caused by worry over a son's illness. He is still ill and now has a further complication, she said.

Prior to July 11 Mrs. Brown had a muscular ailment in her shoulder, but was otherwise healthy, she said.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded the case to next Thursday for judgment.

ATTENDANT: Which grade would I recommend? Let's put it this way. Chevron Supreme gives the best all-round performance for most cars on the road today — including yours!

TEEN-AGER: Dad says he gets more miles per gallon from Chevron Supreme.

ATTENDANT: That's right! If he used our Gasoline Mileage Record Card and made the "Supreme" Mileage Test, he probably proved it for himself. And if he drives a modern car with a high-compression engine, he needs Chevron Supreme's higher octane to eliminate engine knocking.

TEEN-AGER: What about my car?

ATTENDANT: With the model you are driving this improved performance would be less noticeable, so you could drive a bargain by filling up each time with Chevron Regular... oh, and better let me check your oil!

Pick up a copy of Standard's "Gasoline Mileage Record" from Standard Stations or Chevron Dealers when you fill your tank — and prove to yourself how Chevron Supreme increases mileage. If you drive a car that runs on regular grade gasoline, you can still drive a bargain by using Chevron "regular."

Armstrong Fund Passes $1,000

Saanich Policeman 'Very Sick'

A day-old special fund for injured Saanich detective-sergeant Joseph Armstrong grew to $1,055 this morning.

"This has been a wonderful start," said Police Chief Bert Pearson. "In our line of work, you sometimes get discouraged with humanity but this has given my faith in humanity the biggest lift it has had in years."

The Armstrong children, Patricia, 18, and Donald, 11, visited their parents in a Bozeman, Mont., hospital today for the first time since they were injured in the Yellowstone Park earthquake at the beginning of the week.

The children had been in the care of a family in Idaho Falls, Idaho, but were brought to Bozeman "because their father, who still is very sick, wanted to see them and it was felt they could give him a boost," Chief Pearson said.

He added that arrangements have been made to fly the family here as soon as Sgt. Armstrong is strong enough to be transferred to a local hospital. Mrs. Armstrong, who suffered bruises and a broken toe, was allowed to take a "few steps" Thursday.

The fund was established to help the family, which lost all travelling possessions, car, trailer, tent and money in the mountain slide that swept their campsite into Hebgen Lake following the quake.

MEDICAL BILLS
Besides medical bills now facing the family, there is a possibility that terms of insurance will not cover the loss of their belongings in the disaster.

If his injuries prove disabling, Sgt. Armstrong may have to retire from the force without a pension. Now-52, he was too old to enter the superannuation plan when he joined the force.

Donors to the Armstrong fund should send cheques to the Saanich branch of the Bank of Montreal. They should be made out to Chief W. A. Pearson, Detective Robin Stuart or "cash," and should be plainly marked "Armstrong Relief Fund."

Most contributions so far have been in small amounts but a $500 anonymous gift was made Thursday afternoon and another donation of $200 was received today.

DUKE'S YACHT TO ARRIVE HERE MONDAY

Duke of Edinburgh's Dragon class yacht "Bluebottle" will arrive in Victoria Monday after a weekend of racing in Vancouver waters.

The 29-foot sailer will compete against local yachts and will leave for Vancouver and shipment to England Sept. 7. Shipped by Surgeon-Lieutenant Ross Coles, Bluebottle has won four races against Vancouver boats during the past two weeks.

Shawnigan 'Up in Arms' Over Fire

Residents of Shawnigan Lake are up in arms over the action of two Victoria youths who started a fire on popular Mt. Baldy Wednesday night when they let off a couple of smoke bombs.

The fire, which was thought to be under control Wednesday, is now burning over some 15 to 20 acres of timber. Three bulldozers and 50 men recruited by the forest service are fighting the fire.

The childish prank by the two youths "has ruined the area's most popular viewpoint" according to Denis Mason Hurley, owner of the Shawnigan Beach Hotel and a 34-year resident of Shawnigan Lake.

Quite upset over the incident, Mr. Hurley also deplored the manner in which the story of the fire was treated by the Times. "I deplore the levity with which the Times condones the action of a couple of tramps coming in here and setting our best viewpoint on fire. The whole thing was treated as a jolly big joke."

"Everyone in Shawnigan Lake is incensed at the action of these two boys. They shouldn't be taken out to the woodshed for what they did, like the Times suggests; they should be put in jail for what they did and their parents should be made to pay all the costs of fighting the fire."

"This spot which affords a lovely view of the lake area, is extremely popular with tourists as well as local residents, but now, because of the idiotic action of a couple of kids, it will be destroyed for at least 10 years or more."

"Personally," Mr. Hurley said, "I think a public example should be made of the two culprits."

TIRED TALLULAH HERE FOR REST

Tallulah Bankhead has deserted New York for a "holiday of resting and relaxing" in Victoria's quiet countryside.

The stage actress, famed for her "daring" southern accent and manner, is staying at a secluded country estate overlooking Esquimalt Bay, near Hatley Park.

She arrived Wednesday by air "for an indefinite holiday with my old and close friend," Mrs. Doug Cavendish, 501 Belmont Road, a member of the pioneer Bankhead family.

She said she has no plans for any social appearances while here.

"I'm just resting," Miss Bankhead is scheduled to return to New York by the end of next month for a television "spectacular" in October.

She arrived here for the incognito visit with her private secretary, Ted Hook.

Local Officials See Approval Union Merger

Pulp Workers Vote Aug. 31

Trade union circles here expect to see the birth of Canada's largest trade union at the annual convention in Montreal Aug. 31 of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers.

"The international councils of all three unions have discussed a merger at several meetings in the United States, and when it comes up in Montreal it likely will be approved by the members," said Ed Haw, financial secretary of IWA Local 1-118 here.

It was not known when the other two unions will vote on the merger, but Mr. Haw expected it would be favored by his union. Main strength of the IWA is on the Pacific coast, where 25,000 members have been on strike since July 6.

SOLID FRONT
The three unions combined would give a solid front of 88,000 workers to bargain in the lumber, pulp and paper industry across Canada.

There were no developments in the IWA strike today, with both sides of the dispute having been approached by Dr. John J. Deutsch, University of B.C. economist appointed by Labor Minister Lyle Wicks to act as mediator in the dispute.

Dr. Deutsch spoke with union leaders Tuesday and management representatives Wednesday, and has not been available for comment since. "It's all in the hands of Dr. Deutsch now," said John Billings, head of Forest Industries Relations Ltd., representing management in the dispute.

Three Sentenced For Assaulting Police Officer

Three young men were sentenced in Esquimalt court today, one for assaulting a police officer and two for obstructing an officer.

Ronald Johanssen, no fixed address, drew nine months on the assault charge; Richard Sanders, also no fixed address, was sentenced to three months for obstructing; and Charles Johnson, Saanichton, received a suspended sentence.

Charges arose out of a scuffle with a policeman Aug. 15 on Head Street. Const. Gordon Jenkins testified earlier he was dragged on the chin by Johanssen when he tried to break up a fight between Johnson and another man. Johanssen and Sanders also ripped his shirt.

The trio had pleaded guilty. In passing sentence, Magistrate William Ostler said such behavior was "quite inexcusable. Assault is a very serious offence. There is never an excuse."

Johanssen had nine previous convictions and Sanders three, mostly for brawling arising out of drunkenness.

Johnson had no previous convictions and "if you have any sense you will make this your last," Mr. Ostler said. Johnson was put on one year's probation and ordered to post a $250 good behavior bond.

Shrum Appointment Termed 'Way Out' For B.C. Government

Progressive Conservative Leader Deane Finlayson said today the B.C. government is using Dr. Gordon Shrum in the same way that it used the late Gordon Sloan—"to extricate the government from its follies."

Speaking to The Times from Vancouver, Mr. Finlayson said: "The report of the Shrum Royal Commission has considerable significance apart from its contents. It can be compared to the embarrassing situation created by maladministration of the B.C. forestry department which led to the appointment of Hon. Gordon Sloan (as forestry commissioner)."

Mr. Finlayson, however, approved the government's appointment of a five-man B.C. energy board, headed by Dr. Shrum, to advise the government on all phases of energy development, production and use.

"One hope offered by the appointment of this board is that it will in future guide the government to right conclusions—something it has proved itself incapable of doing on its own."

"Both cases show Premier Bennett's political cunning."

Statement Called Un-Christian

Earlier, Mr. Finlayson described as "un-Christian" a statement by Premier Bennett that the Shrum report accused former manager Lee Briggs of "mismanagement."

Mr. Finlayson alleged that the premier had "twisted the findings of the commission, thus enabling him to make a new but un-Christian attack on the character and ability of Mr. Briggs."

He said B.C. is indebted to Mr. Briggs for having given the province "an opportunity for a fresh start in producing a sensible power policy for the province."

He said B.C. needs a power policy which will accomplish four things:

1. Promote Canadian ownership and control of future power development.

'Uncalled for in a Democracy'

"This type of language (Mr. Strachan's) is completely uncalled for in a democracy," the premier said. "I would not stoop to answer it."

"The commission was set up to investigate Mr. Briggs' charges that the power commission directors were not co-operating with him."

"The report completely disproved that."

He said there was no discrepancy between his statement released in Courtenay Tuesday and the full report released Wednesday.

He promised the type of situation that developed over the power commission will "never happen again."

"It only happened because the government was not represented on the commission. It was set up by a former government to remain aloof from government."

"But now that (lands and forests minister) Ray Williston and (mines minister) Kenneth Kiernan are on the commission the government will be in close touch with its affairs."

Liberal leader Ray Perrault said the premier's action at Courtenay "is one of the worst incidents in the career of a government which continues to show very little respect for British parliamentary tradition."

Mr. Briggs, who was fired as general manager of the B.C. power commission last November, has since been appointed a member of the new national energy board by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

CHARLES GUIGUET ... rain, wind, snow

B.C. WILDERNESS

Biologist Completes Rugged Trip

After facing snowstorms of blizzard proportions, high winds and heavy rains in a six-week trip to an unexplored area of British Columbia, Charlie Guiguet, museum biologist, said today he's had enough of "wilderness" for this year.

He has returned from the alpine plains of the Spatsizi country, about 380 miles northwest of Prince George, an area still untouched by man.

The expedition was organized by Dr. David Turner, deputy minister of conservation and recreation, and members of his staff, who also accompanied Mr. Guiguet.

They travelled by pack horse train.

"The weather was tough," said Mr. Guiguet. "It was hard to keep dry. It was no picnic."

He said the country is the last big game area of the province. It abounds with caribou, moose, grizzly bear, mountain goat and sheep, and the rivers are teeming with fish.

GOLDEN BIRDS

One of Mr. Guiguet's most important discoveries was a colony of golden plovers which scientists believed only nested in the Arctic tundra. The birds are sometimes seen over Victoria when migrating to South America in fall.

"It's a fascinating territory," he said. "The watershed of some of the big rivers of British Columbia and the Arctic start there."

"On one side of the watershed you catch Arctic fish and on the other Pacific species."

Two cabs belonging to the same company collided at Douglas and Broughton shortly after 1 p.m. Thursday sending two to hospital.

David Deno, 48, of 516 Rupert, was treated for a rib injury and admitted, while Ellen Martin, Vancouver, was treated for minor injuries and released.

Drivers of the cabs were H. W. Leachman, 230 Kingston, and Robert G. Jackson, 1140 Government.

Damage to both cars was heavy.

WINNERS OF THE WEEKLY TOURNAMENT OF THE ALLMASTERS Duplicate Bridge Club were:

1. Kay Davies, Otto Leemont, 2. Jack Goldie, Dick Lipsey, 3. Gordon Rodger, Frank Artlett, 4. William McConnell, Viator Couture, 5. Freda Small, Ricki Nickells, 6. and 7. (tied) Dorothy McConnell and Elizabeth Warren; Tony Marsh and Leslie Stewart.

Out of action for the last three weeks due to annual refit, the YMCA swimming pool is expected to be back in operation Monday or Tuesday.

The pool is almost continuously in use during the winter when physical training classes in addition to the swim teams compete for its use.

The Sudbury II left here with the tow, slated for the scrap yard, July 14.

DIGGING INTO THE PAST

Atomic Age Test to Fix Exact Date of Relics

By WILSON DUFF
Curator of Anthropology,
Provincial Museum

The opportunity to obtain a precise date for the earliest level of the McNeill Bay midden has just been presented to us on a platter. Or more literally, by the discovery of the large platter-shaped hearth of one of the site's first campfires.

From this hearth, uncovered yesterday, we have taken several pieces of charred wood, and such charcoal is the best material for dating by the recently developed "radiocarbon" or "Carbon 14" method. The hearth lies directly on subsoil, with no feet of midden strata over it. Its date will establish accurately the time of first occupation of this part of the site.

The radiocarbon method of dating is a product of the Atomic Age. It was developed about 10 years ago as a result of research in atomic energy. It is based on the fact that all living things contain a definite, known concentration of radioactive carbon.

This "C14" is formed in the upper atmosphere from nitrogen atoms as a result of the action of cosmic rays. Chemically, it acts just like ordinary carbon (C12). It enters into plants in the form of carbon dioxide, and into the animals that eat the plants, and so on. The result is that all of us are to a small degree, and at the same degree, radioactive.

Radiocarbon is unstable. Each one of its atoms eventually gives off a tiny explosion of energy and becomes once again an atom of nitrogen. Physicists have measured the rate of disintegration of C14 and have found that its "half life" is about 5,700 years. That is, half of a given amount of C14 will integrate in that length of time. A measurable amount will still remain even after 35,000 years, which is about the practical limit of this method of dating.

When a living thing dies, it stops taking in carbon, and the C14 in its tissues slowly dwindles away. By measuring the amount of C14 left in any ancient wood, or bone, or shell, the physicist can calculate how long it has been dead. He can also calculate how accurate his answer is, and he gives the margin of error with the age. For example, the radiocarbon date for the bottom of the Marpole midden in Vancouver is 943 B.C. plus or minus 130 years.

In collecting the charcoal sample from the hearth, we had to be very careful that it wasn't contaminated by any other carbon of a more recent age. Tiny roots growing down through it had to be carefully removed. It now lies safely in one of my wife's quart sealers, waiting to be sent off to be dated.

We have never yet had a sample dated by this method. It has to be sent away to one of the very few laboratories on the continent that have the complicated equipment and trained scientists to make the delicate measurements. And it is pretty expensive, which is unfortunate for low-budget digs like ours.

We aren't sure when we'll be able to get it done, but when we do it will give us an accurate date for Page One of our story of prehistoric Victorians.

Bits of charcoal will tell the tale.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

How to Eliminate Pads Of Fat Just Below Waist

Q After all these years I am a little late in getting help to get rid of my large hips. I am 41 years old, 5 feet 3½ inches tall and weigh 137 pounds. My bust measures 37 inches, waist 28 and hips 42. This weight is mostly on the back from the waist down. In other words, the part of the large hips I hate most consists of pads of fat just below the waist.

A You should lose a little weight unless you have a very large frame. If you have a medium build, you should weigh about 120 pounds. You can redistribute your weight more attractively with exercise. The following one is effective for the pads of fat you mention. Stand tall, feet comfortably separated. Bend your elbows and place your hands at the back of your head. Keep the arms in this position as you bend to the left, trying to touch your left elbow to your right leg. Raise the trunk. This time bend the trunk to the right elbow to the right leg. Raise trunk and continue, alternating. If you cannot touch the legs with the elbows, go as far in that direction as possible. Keep the knees straight all through the exercise.

Q Is there anything to do about prominent veins on one leg or about the brown look which has appeared on my face? Both of these things happened during pregnancy.

A The discoloration on your face is called "pregnancy mask." It usually fades out with time. Pregnancy sometimes exaggerates a tendency toward varicose veins. You should see your doctor about this since early treatment can save you much trouble and discomfort.

Q Will it help age lines to drink an egg nog every day? Please answer in your column.

A No one special food will banish lines. However, good nutrition has a happy effect on the whole body, including the skin. Eggs and milk are splendid health foods, so in an indirect way they may help one stay younger longer.

Q "I weigh 128 pounds and am 5 feet 8 inches tall. My bust measures 33½ inches, waist 25 and hips 36. My friends think I am skinny but my parents do not. Please tell me what I should weigh."

A It depends a lot on build but you might profit by a gain of five pounds.

Q I am always reading that a woman should pluck her eyebrows from underneath and not from above, but suppose she has stray hairs above?

A Stray hairs, outside of the regular browline, should be plucked whether they are below or above. The advice you mentioned had to do with shaping the brows—making them narrower, for instance.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Dad Drives Us Wild

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My Dad is in his seventies and when he drives a car he is a danger on the streets. His reflexes are poor. I am afraid to let my children ride with him. When he comes here for his vacation and wants to drive, what can I do?

His pride is tied up in his ability to drive. He thinks he is a good driver, but he is a threat. Others may have this problem, too. Can you help us?

WORRIED.
DEAR WORRIED: Life and limb (your children's as well as his own) are more important than his "pride." Tell your Dad that because you love him and want him around for many more years, you don't want him to drive. Get the rest of your family to back you up. This may seem cruel, but it is a lot kinder than letting him kill himself.

DEAR ABBY: Should I send wedding invitations to people who live too far away to come to my wedding?

I'm afraid if I don't send them an invitation they'll feel hurt. I am also afraid if I send them an invitation, knowing they can't come, it will look like I'm asking for a present. Could you advise me please?

OCTOBER BRIDE.
DEAR BRIDE: In recent years, the formal wedding invitation has taken on the connotation of a "bill."

Send invitations only to those friends and relatives whom you feel will come to your wedding. Very few people are "hurt" because they fail to receive an invitation to a wedding they cannot attend.

DEAR ABBY: A very well-mannered and cordial neighbor has deliberately trained her dog to do things on our lawn that she doesn't want done on her own lawn. She knows we disapprove strongly because she has stood in her doorway and watched us chase her dog from our yard several times.

We are puzzled. How can dog owners train their dogs to destroy and mess the property of others? Your advice is needed.

GREEN INK BUT NOT GREEN GRASS

DEAR GREEN: You are mistaken. Neighbors who train their dogs to destroy and mess the property of others are neither well-mannered nor cordial. Don't rely on anything so subtle as "chasing" her dog from your yard to convey your disapproval. Pay your neighbor a visit and tell her that if she doesn't keep her dog out of your yard, you will ask the law to help protect your property.

DEAR ABBY: My four-year-old daughter was born two years before her father and I were married. When she was born I had to use my maiden name on her birth certificate.

Her father and I are married now. How can I get her birth certificate fixed up proper like it should be?

MARRIED NOW.
DEAR MARRIED: I doubt very much if you can "fix up" a birth certificate after it has been filed. Consult a lawyer.

Husband and Wife Take Year Off; Drive Van and Camp on Continent

By JUDY NICHOLSON

Camping in Europe is really seeing Europe! And teachers Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Coburn of North Vancouver have the stories and pictures to prove they saw much of the continent overseas... and on a shoestring. What started out as an extensive tour of European art galleries and museums ended as a glorified excursion in which they stayed in wayside camps, cooked their own meals... and were "free as birds."

Lorne, a teacher at Delbrook High School in Vancouver, decided to take 12-months' leave of absence from his work, to study the history of art in Europe.

His wife, the former Marnie Wilson, daughter of Mrs. W. H. Wilson of Howe Street (she is Alderman Lily Wilson) is also a teacher. She was as enthusiastic as Lorne in the project of "doing the Continent in such a manner."

"So," she says, "last June when school was over, we flew overseas on the first lap of the journey."

In Hanover, Germany, they purchased a transport van. Inside, at back, it was furnished with all the necessary camping equipment, stove, shelves and couch. "This van was our only really big investment," explains Lorne, "and we can't praise it enough. It has been invaluable and a wonderful way to travel."

The Coburns spent some time touring places in Europe where famous galleries were established. "At night we'd follow our neat little map, issued over there to show where all the camps can be found in each country."

"It wasn't like holiday camping out in the woods," says Lorne, "but rather a chance to enjoy the outdoors and still travel comfortably and neatly."

Marnie praises the versatility of the camps. "Such luxuries as laundry facilities, hot and cold running water, grocery store, car wash, gift shop and bar were common occurrences."

Travelling by van, the Coburns were able to meet many people. "Especially at night," declares Lorne, "we'd stop at a camp and it wasn't long before our van would be crowded with people chattering in various languages."

On the subject of food, Marnie is full of hints for would-be travellers to Europe. "With the stove in the van, I cooked all our meals. It was fun, because I picked up ideas for several European dishes and a lot of testing went on."

Lorne's eyes twinkle as he says, "Yes, we lived mostly on spaghetti... Marnie found it the easiest dish to prepare!"

Soroptimist International and Methodist Church share interest in English visitor, Mrs. W. B. Whitaker. (Photo by J. Svendsen.)

Active in Public Life

A visit to North America, planned by Mrs. W. B. Whitaker to meet relatives, has widened to include a speaking tour that will take her to many parts of the United States.

Prominent as chairman of the Women's Fellowship of the Methodist Church in southern England, Mrs. Whitaker has been invited by the American Methodist groups to speak to gatherings in San Francisco, Columbus, Ohio, and other points on her way back to the Atlantic Coast.

At present this interesting visitor is enjoying a few days with cousins, Miss Ethel Rogers, 4116 Quadra Street, with whom she is staying; Mrs. G. W. H. Griffin, and an aunt, Mrs. J. Rogers.

Mrs. Whitaker was born in Providence, R.I., where her father assisted in building the famed State House. And it was to Providence that she went first when she arrived from overseas.

"I was very small when we left Rhode Island for England," she recalls, so I wanted to look up and renew friendships with relatives there."

Relatives and friends were also visited in Niagara Falls, Sarnia, Toronto and Calgary. Mrs. Whitaker is a science teacher by profession. In Gravesend, Eng., where she lives with her husband, she is a magistrate and sits on Domestic Court and Juvenile Court, two or three times a week. It is only in the past two years that it has been compulsory for a woman to sit on the domestic and juvenile courts, she points out. Before that, a woman could sit but it wasn't an established fact.

This work is all on a voluntary basis. "When the cases are too severe we send them to the quarter sessions or the assizes where paid judges pass sentence."

Another interest in this active woman's life is Soroptimist International of which she is a member.

"I organized the Soroptimist Club in Gravesend," she says proudly, "and, because I had relatives in Providence, R.I., and in Trail, B.C., I have been able to arrange to have Soroptimist groups in those cities as sister clubs."

Early next week Mrs. Whitaker will leave by car for Trail, to spend a short time with relatives. Then she goes south to California and from there starts east on her speaking tour.

Richard's Beauty Salon will open in its new location in the General-Fairfield District at 1722 Lillian Rd. on Sept. 1st.

BOY HAS PARENT TROUBLE

I am a 20-year-old boy who will be married next month. My parents who have been divorced for three years are not on speaking terms because of father's ill treatment of mother. I love both my parents and want them in the receiving line. Mother, who expects to remarry before I do, says she will not stand in line with father, because she says it would look as if there is some present relationship between them and it would cast a reflection on her new husband. She thinks her new husband should stand with her as my father. Please advise.

Louise

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS:

It would ease matters if both men absent themselves from the receiving line. It would be embarrassing, awkward and exceedingly unpleasant to have your parents in the line, and surely you can all forego that. Your mother's new husband will be too new to the family and friends to receive as long as you love your father and as he will be present. The two men can mingle with the guests and should make every effort to separate themselves. They would be much more comfortable and it would help prevent comments and raised eyebrows. Sensible compromises have to be made in situations like this. Your mother should accept the fact that her new bridegroom is not your father and should also realize that you love your father even if she doesn't.

SOLUTION MONDAY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other attractive prizes? Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who suggest the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngsters who win the first question answered each day receive a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Bobby Cavanaugh, aged 11, of Sudbury, Mass., for the question:

What Exactly is Lava?

We get the word lava from Naples, the fair city which sits at the feet of the smouldering volcano Vesuvius. At first it was the name given to pouring rain which from time to time overflowed the ancient streets. Later, the name was given to the molten rock which streams from any erupting volcano. It is also the name given to the rock which forms when the molten lava cools and becomes hard.

Lava has its beginning in the roots of a volcano many miles below the ground. It is hot enough there to melt rock and form great pools of molten magma. All sorts of minerals and chemicals are mixed together in this buried magma and it seethes with steam and gases.

When the volcano erupts, this seething mass rushes up to the surface. It may flow down the side of a volcanic cone or it may seep out from a hole and spread over the ground in a great flood. The liquid rock cools to form a great variety of different lava rocks.

Lava rock is always a mixture of several minerals, often like the different minerals in granite. The kind of rock it finally forms depends very much upon how it cools. Sometimes, when the lava is chilled very fast, it becomes obsidian. In a lump, obsidian is dense and glossy black. But a tiny sliver of it is quite transparent. The Indians traveled far to get this volcanic glass to make knives and arrowheads.

Hard, glossy obsidian is actually made from the same chemicals as fluffy pumice stone. When it was molten, the pumice seethed with gassy bubbles. The bubbles were trapped as the hot lava cooled and the pumice stone became light enough to float on water.

Rhyolite is a lava which cooled more slowly than obsidian. Quartz and feldspar in the molten mixture had time to form tiny crystals. This lava rock comes in pastel colors of green, pink and grey, often speckled with tiny crystals.

Basalt Found All Over World

Basalt is a dark and heavy lava which cooled slowly. Sometimes it contains trapped gas bubbles which are lined with agate, calcite or amethyst. Basalt is a rock common all over the world, usually in great layers below the surface. The Hawaiian Islands are made entirely of lava from great volcanoes. Certain lava rocks have Hawaiian names. Pahoehoe is a dark rock formed in ropey twists. Aa is a cindery lava. Sometimes the surface of a molten river cools and sets while hot lava flows below. This may form lava caves, and they even may be decorated with stalactites. But perhaps the most amazing is the lava bomb. This forms when an erupting volcano tosses a spit ball of molten lava into the air. As it falls through the air, the lump of lava turns and twists into a long spindle shape. These ropey bombs may be a few inches to several feet long.

LESS HANDSHAKING DURING ROYAL VISIT

KELOWNA (CP) — A city council resolution calling for less handshaking when royalty visits Canadian municipalities was forwarded to the quarterly meeting of the Okanagan Valley Municipal Association in Penticton Thursday. Aldermen said too much time was taken up in shaking hands during the recent visit of the Queen and Prince Philip here.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Princess Yasmin, Rita Hayworth's 9-year-old daughter, went swimming at the exclusive Beach Point Club at Mamaronock—but very few knew that this was the often-headlined little girl now en route to the Riviera to join her father, Aly Khan. Because her hostess, Mrs. Bernard Kamber, introduced her to everybody at the club as simply, "Yasmin Khan."

The stock market, flurried naturally caused excitement on the French Riviera. Two American financiers were sunning themselves in front of the Carlton at Cannes. One said, "I think the sea is rising." The other excitedly shouted: "Sell!"

The late Eddy Duchin's son Peter makes his big-time TV debut as a pianist Aug. 30 on Ed Sullivan's army show. He adopted his father's theme song, "Concerto in E Flat Minor." Bert Wheeler plays the court jester of a scandal-ridden presidential administration in the new B'way show, "The Gang's All Here," and as he tells it at the Lambs, "I'm kind of a clown, but I wind up stealing a couple million dollars." The play has a president, Melvyn Douglas; president has a mistress, and the authors, Lee and Lawrence, are from Ohio—so maybe you can guess what president.

Anna Magnani was so "taken" with Leonard Garten, 25-year-old "Fugitive Kind" extra, she got him two screen tests... Candy Jones has a columnist she can call her own... Toots Shor, the Man Without a Saloon, finds prices so high in the other joints, he's hurrying his new spot... Jack "Count Turf" Amiel and glamorous publicist Gertrude Bayne are a-goin' steady.

Ernest Hemingway made an invaluable contribution to immortal dialogue when he told Al Horwitz, concerning a mutual friend, "You know, he does a lot of useless drinking." Understand Jackie Gleason's inaugurated a fresh idea in B'way stage rehearsals: "A Scotch break"... One of Errol Flynn's pals just nicknamed him "The Tall Farouk" The Voisin's boss, Hy Uehitel, and his ex, Lynn Dixon, reconciled while separately vacationing in Miami Beach.

Smith Bay Beach Improvement Asked of Council

CROFTON — A plea for improvement of Smith Bay beach here, described as having the warmest water on the whole B.C. coast, has been made to North Cowichan council by Mrs. Winnifred Walton.

She said money had been spent at Duncan, Chemainus, and Maple Bay, where the facilities cannot compare with the local beach.

"I cannot understand why such a potential tourist bonanza is so sadly neglected," she wrote to council.

BEARS WHO CAME TO DINNER

Buttle Lake bears, accustomed to working for their food, are finding easy pickings from campers at the lake.

According to Hank Cameron, Victoria water board employee, the bears have been so busy that food has had to be locked in cars. They have even dumped ice chests, he said.

"I had to stay up all night and throw stones at them, to keep them away," he said.

Fulford Fall Fair To Open Wednesday

There will be sections for vegetables and farm produce, fruit, dairy products and poultry, floral displays, home cooking, needlework and home crafts, and a large section for hobbies to include metal work, carving pottery, water color and oil painting, photography, ceramics, woodwork and model building.

Completed entry forms must be in the hands of the secretary, Mrs. Randy Young, Fulford Harbor, by Monday and entries must be at the hall by Tuesday night. Only exceptions are cooking and flower exhibits, which will be accepted up to 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Members of the committee in charge are George Heinekey, Harold Price and Mrs. Young.

TENDERS CALLED

New Overpass For Nanoose

Designed To Eliminate Road Hazard

PARKSVILLE—Tenders for construction of a new Nanoose overpass to replace the present Island Highway bridge south of here will be called in January, according to word received from Dan Campbell, Comox MLA.

It is understood plans for a new structure have been completed, and that footings have been tested at the site.

The present structure carries the highway over the E and N Railway tracks about midway between here and Nanaimo. It comes at a curve in the road, and has been the scene of many accidents, some of them fatal.

Its danger is further aggravated by the present 60-mile speed limit on that portion of the highway, although speed is restricted to 40 miles per hour for a short distance on either side of the overpass.

The railroad at this point is in a gully with steep banks. Since each end of the overpass is on the brink of the gully, loss of control of a car gives the driver little choice but to hit the overpass approach or crash down to the railroad tracks.

GARDEN THIEVES AT WORK

WEST HOLME — RCMP in Duncan are investigating a series of thefts from farms and gardens in this area. Several semi-commercial gardens have been raided the past few nights and assorted produce taken, and 16 Hampshire pullets were stolen from the farm of A. D. Walker.

Duncan Drill Team at PNE

DUNCAN — The 28-girl Duncan Drill Team will take part in the PNE parade in Vancouver Saturday under direction of Mrs. J. A. Green, leader and general manager.

With the team will be Marilyn Moore, former team captain for several years.

Last appearance of the team will be at the annual Luxton fall fair Aug. 29.

ISLAND DIGEST

Victoria Daily Times 17 FRIDAY, AUG. 21, 1959

Citizenship Minister Chief's Guest

PORT ALBERNI — Two women of influence—Citizenship and Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough and Chief Jessie Watts of Seshah Indian Band—discussed Indian affairs Thursday at Chief Watts' River Road home.

Mrs. Fairclough is making a tour of Indian villages in her capacity as director-general of Indian affairs, and arrived here from Duncan.

At a meeting in Seshah Hall, Councillor Willie Tatoosh asked for improved housing, education and health facilities for Indians.

Mrs. Fairclough had invited briefs and representations on band problems, and promised full hearings.

Chief and councillors here were complimented by Col. H. Jones, superintendent of Indian affairs, on the way band funds had been used in the area.

Rotary Auction Sets Record of $3,000

QUALICUM BEACH—Record figure of more than $3,000 was reached at the Qualicum Beach Rotary Club 10th annual auction and rummage sale in the community hall here. Proceeds will be used for the club's 1959 public service program, which includes westward extension of their beach and improvement work around the war memorial area in recent years.

For two weeks Rotarians have been canvassing the area for articles. Donations ranged from furniture and electrical appliances to art objects and credit notes at stores and hotels. "Rotary-Annes" in charge of the clothing section also made a record total of around $650.

Auctioneers were Rotarians Garney St. Germain, Craig Reid and Dunc Fraser, who kept bids moving for three and a half hours. Final figures will be announced at the club's meeting next week.

NEWS BRIEFS

Winners of the weekly tournament of the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club follow:

Black Section: Otto Leement and Louis Lindholm, first; Charles Cleworth and Frank Artlett, second; Elizabeth Warren and Les Stewart, third; Audrey Jorgensen and Phil Hagel, fourth.

B.C. civil servants are expected to renew their drive for increased wages at a meeting of the provincial government employees' association to be held here Oct. 23.

They will also review the civil servants' strike which took place earlier this year.

More than 80 delegates are coming to Victoria for the meeting.

Mrs. Amy Newton Adams, a regular visitor to Victoria for many years, died at her home at Bellevue, Washington, this week. She had many friends in this city.

Dismissed Civil Servant Gets New Job

VANCOUVER — David Barrett, 29, dismissed as staff training officer at Haney Correctional Institute because of political activity, has begun work as supervisor of counselling services with the John Howard Society here.

The society helps to rehabilitate prisoners.

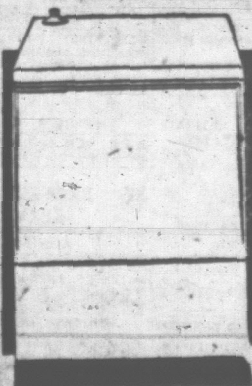

Mr. Barrett was dismissed two weeks ago because he is seeking the CCF nomination to run against Labor Minister Wicks in Dewdney riding in the next provincial election.

New Compact Cars Coming

Let us do some crystal gazing today. What is in store for the new-car buyer of the immediate future? In a matter of weeks, we shall see three really new cars from the major American manufacturers - from G.M.'s Chevrolet division, from Ford and from Chrysler.

These will be "compact" cars, much less bulky over-all than these makers' current smallest cars, but not appreciably less roomy inside. They will be lighter, but they will sit on the road just as securely. Their smaller engines will be more economical of fuel, though, again, the net performance of these cars will be good and lively, since the power-to-weight ratio will still be favorable.

They will be of "unit-construction," like so many imported cars, and like the American Rambler, Lincoln and Thunderbirds.

These will be new cars from the wheels up.

ENGINE IN REAR
Chevrolet's Corvair is reliably rumored to be piece of engineering as brilliant as it is unorthodox, by American standards.

It will have an air-cooled, rear-mounted, six-cylinder engine, made of aluminum, and of "pancake" design, i.e., a flat engine with horizontally opposed cylinders, three on each side, the pistons moving not up and down, but sideways.

The rear wheels will be independently sprung.

Now it would be ridiculous to suggest that a notoriously independently thinking firm like General Motors would consciously copy anybody else's products; with the resources and talent at their disposal, the Corvair would have turned out precisely as it will even had there never lived a Dr. Porsche who designed the Volkswagen, which became the post-war world's most sensational commercial success with a rear-mounted, air-cooled, "pancake" engine sitting over independently suspended rear wheels.

The Ford Falcon will be, in over-all concept, not unlike the now-famous six-cylinder British Zephyrs and Zodiacs, which have also achieved world-wide success in the 2½-liter, six-passenger category of cars.

WORTHY CHALLENGE
And Chrysler's Valiant will provide a worthy challenge to its two chief competitors. Its brand new, ultra-modern six-cylinder engine will displace closer to the 2½-liter mark, and we may look to handling and riding characteristics here for which Chrysler-built cars have enjoyed an outstanding reputation.

These new cars will be in addition to the famous, established makes - all of which will appear in new, improved 1960 versions.

Yet they represent no less than the beginning of a revolution in the automotive industry, to the benefit of the motoring public at large.

INSIDE CHOICE

We shall have a wider choice than ever in cars, in size, in mechanical features. These new cars will be cheaper than anything offered by their makers at present.

They represent, further, a modern version of the David and Goliath story.

For the two "small" independents, Studebaker-Packard and American Motors, have been building wonderful cars of this very "compact" type, and have quietly sold every one they could make; by their success, they more or less forced the giants to follow suit; for the giants suddenly realized that a market existed for this type of car which the two independents simply could not satisfy, that many more Ramblers and Larks would be running if production capacity permitted.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

B.C. Gets Flood Of Bogus Money

(From Times News Services)
VANCOUVER — Police Thursday expressed fear that counterfeit $10 bills will flood the city during the next few weeks. They said many turn up at the Pacific National Exhibition which opens this weekend.

RCMP said they have received "certain information" suggesting that a suspected pusher, arrested in Toronto this week following finding of $1,000 in bogus bills, and an accomplice, put about $4,000 worth of counterfeit bills into circulation in Western Canada.

Police said that about $2,500 worth of counterfeit bills that have turned up in the Vancouver area since spring were printed in Montreal.

TRAIN KILLS WORKER
HOPE, B.C. — A railway employee was killed late Thursday when hit by a speeding passenger train.

Witnesses said the unidentified man was trapped on a trestle between Hope and Yale when the westbound CNE Super Continental hit him from behind as he ran toward safe ground. The body was taken on the train to Hope.

FINANCES FOR UBCM
KELOWNA — Finance will be given a high priority in discussions here Sept. 16-18 at the convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

The UBCM executive has had a report prepared by a special finance policy committee and it is regarded as a blueprint for financial stability among local governments.

TEACHERS' WORKSHOP
NELSON — School boards have wisely become policy makers, delegating responsibility, the 10th annual workshop of the British Columbia Teachers Federation was told here.

E. E. Hyndman of Victoria, chief inspector of schools and a former school inspector here, said the tremendous growth in school population has made it necessary for school boards to depend upon the professional assistance of an established advisor in the person of a local superintendent of schools.

MERCY FLIGHT PLANNED
VANCOUVER — An RCAF Dakota equipped with an iron lung was to pick up a United States woman suffering from polio at Whitehorse, Y.T., and deliver her to Edmonton.

The RCAF said here the woman, who was not identified, requires treatment in a larger hospital.

WARNING TO FARMERS
VERNON — A coroner's jury here said farmers should be made aware of the danger in allowing inexperienced persons to drive tractors. The jury ruled as accidental the death of John Wilfred Laughton, 12, of nearby Lumby, killed when a tractor he was driving overturned.

POWER RATES UP
NEW WESTMINSTER — The Public Utilities Commission has granted B.C. Electric Company permission to increase by 8.75 per cent the price New Westminster pays for bulk electricity.

Mayor Beth Wood promised to fight the decision and said a royal commission should investigate B.C. Electric.

Swim-Suited Widow Shot; Friend Held

WINTER PARK, Fla. (UPI) — Police held a 39-year-old contractor today in connection with the midnight pistol slaying Thursday of a beautiful 35-year-old widow.

Officers said William Vikes would be held on charges of "suspicion of homicide" until an inquest is held Wednesday in the death of Mrs. Velma O. Hoover.

Mrs. Hoover, mother of four, was gunned down on her front lawn shortly after going for a midnight swim with her date in her backyard pool. She was wearing a tight strapless bathing suit when she was killed by a single shot in the chest.

Mr. Diefenbaker will open the Pacific National Exhibition in Vancouver Saturday.

Mayor Scurrah also will propose to Mr. Diefenbaker that federal subsidy, of about $100,000, should be paid to the CPR to keep the Victoria-Vancouver ferry in operation this winter until the provincial service begins operations.

GREETINGS FROM HOME, tape recorded by radio stations across Canada, were received by Canadian soldiers serving with the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East. Here Sgt. Gerald Barnett, Victoria, listens to his message. Recordings were sponsored by Labatt's. (DND Photo.)

Mother, 2 Tots Human Torches

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — An explosion and fire, touched off when a heater ignited gasoline fumes, turned a young mother and her two small children into human torches Thursday.

Mrs. Beatrice Armstrong, 21, died within seconds after being engulfed by the flames at her home in suburban Renton Highlands. Her son, Douglas, 3½, died in hospital early today.

Beverly Jean, 2, was also critically burned and not expected to live. A third child, Pamela Lynn, two months, was rescued unharmed from an adjoining bedroom.

Mrs. Armstrong was cleaning tar from the children's feet with gasoline in a bathtub. The pilot light on a nearby hot water heater apparently ignited the fumes said Coroner Leo Sowers.

The explosion spewed a tongue of flame 25 feet into the living room and caught the attention of neighborhood children who gave the alarm. A neighbor, Floren Martichuski, 30, forced up the bedroom window and lifted the baby to safety.

elephant went down. Thirty-three were injured in the mad scramble to get out of the way of a possible charge.

The incident occurred during a procession to the Temple of the Tooth, where the relic of Buddha reposes, during the final day of the seven-day festival.

First Elected Jew in Canada To Be Honored
MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Jewish Congress has organized celebrations to honor Ezekiel Hart, who served as Canada's first Jewish legislator but was never allowed to vote because of his religion.

Hart was elected in 1807 to the legislative assembly of Lower Canada for Trois-Rivières, Que.

Although he was denied the right to enter the assembly, his constituents re-elected him the following year.

He never took his seat, but lived to see an act passed 24 years later granting Jews in Canada privileges of other British subjects.

Celebrations will be held Sept. 7 in Trois-Rivières, when a plaque inscribed in English and French will be mounted in a park opposite a street bearing the name of the Hart family.

Living Cost Gauge Urged for Annuities

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Scott Gordon, professor of economics at Carleton University in Ottawa, has suggested a government annuity adjustable to changes in the cost of living to protect pensioners and people on fixed income from inflation.

Such an annuity would protect the real value of an investor's capital, he said.

The investor's annual allowance would rise and fall with fluctuations in the cost of living.

Dr. Gordon, lecturing at UBC, said the annuity would offer the investor the security of bonds without the loss in real value in inflationary periods and without the risk inherent in stocks.

A government annuity with a limited annual allowance is offered now to provide the low wage earner with a means of saving.

The annuity envisaged by Dr. Gordon is much broader. It would be designed primarily as an investment opportunity for company pension plan funds and people on fixed incomes caught by inflationary pressures.

Total amount of annuity one person could buy would be limited to a "reasonable" amount, possibly providing $5,000-$7,000 yearly.

"The idea is to prevent people from suffering want, not to keep them in the style to which they may become accustomed," he said.

NO BELFRY BUT BATS IN WASHER
BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. John C. Fiorella thought she had bats in her belfry Thursday when she opened her automatic washer.

But the bats were in the washer—along with the day's wash. Two of the winged things clung to the agitator and blew soap bubbles with each breath, she said. The third was swimming around on top of the clothes.

Mrs. Fiorella said she had no idea how they got into the washer.

MARGARET CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY WITH PICNIC

BALLATER, Scotland (Reuters) — Telegrams, greetings and flowers poured into Balmoral Castle today for Princess Margaret's 29th birthday.

The princess who, like her mother, was born in Scotland, has spent all her birthdays at Balmoral since she was seven.

Prince Charles, 10, and Princess Anne, 9, usually buy their "Aunt Margot's" birthday presents here—often a piece of jewelry.

The family present-giving took place at breakfast this morning.

Later, the whole family—the Queen, Prince Philip, their two children and the Queen Mother—was expected to join Princess Margaret in a birthday picnic on the Balmoral estate.

Tonight, after the children were put to bed, a birthday dinner was planned.

(See Page 13)

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Gordon Shrum says he does not know whether he will accept appointment as chairman of British Columbia's new energy board.

He said in a telephone interview from Copenhagen, Denmark, Thursday night he was taken by surprise when he heard of the appointment to the board that was recommended in a royal commission he headed.

The report of the commission, which investigated the question of public power in the province and the crown-owned British Columbia power commission, was released Wednesday.

Asked about the appointment, Mr. Shrum said: "I don't know whether I will take it or not. I have received no official notification and I will have to think it over."

NO AMBIGUITY

He said there is no reason why conflicting conclusions should be drawn from the royal commission report.

"The report is not ambiguous if taken as read. Our conclusions were drafted with utmost care to avoid ambiguity."

He said he would not comment on H. Lee Briggs, former power commission general manager, other than what was contained in the report.

"It would be most unfair to the other royal commission members to make any statement collateral to our report."

Dr. Shrum is attending a scientific convention in Copenhagen and is not expected back in Vancouver until Sept. 12. He is dean of graduate studies at the University of B.C.

Escapee Recaptured

VANCOUVER (CP)—John Richardson, 25, who escaped from Vancouver police station Wednesday while a charge of drug possession was being prepared by RCMP, has been recaptured.

Richardson told a civilian elevator operator he was wanted on the second floor of the building. He stepped off the elevator and escaped down a flight of stairs by the time the operator became suspicious and gave an alarm.

Tear Gas Quells 300 Guelph Jail Rioters

SO NOBODY GOT CAUGHT

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver football fans have apparently reformed.

Dry squad detectives at Thursday night's Western Interprovincial Football Union game between British Columbia Lions and Saskatchewan Roughriders did not find one person consuming liquor.

After the season-opening game here between Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Lions scores of empty liquor bottles were found in the stands and police said drinking at games would not be tolerated.

Traffic officers said there were no charges of impaired driving laid after Thursday night's game. There were four after the first game.

GUELPH, Ont. (CP)—About 300 rioting prisoners at the Ontario Reformatory here were stopped with tear gas early today as their ringleaders stormed a dining room door.

Two guards were injured when the prisoners rushed the door. One of the guards, George William Andrews, is in the institution's hospital suffering a possible ruptured kidney.

Superintendent George Sanderson said the disturbance, the third in many days, was over in 15 minutes.

The prisoners, herded out in to a large yard, pleaded they had enough after police pelted them with tear gas.

The 300 prisoners were in the dining room for breakfast when the sudden flareup began. Shouting and chanting, the men threw dishes and plates at windows and milled about. The unarmed prison guards were powerless.

Provincial police reinforcements arrived just after the rioters had been driven out into the yard with non-rioters.

About 40 men rushed the dining room doors from the prison yard and two guards were injured in the general rush. Police and guards fired tear gas bombs.

Minutes later Mr. Sanderson with an armed guard, went into the compound and identified 40 ringleaders of the riot who were carried off to solitary confinement.

Mr. Sanderson reported later things had returned to normal.

BUT MAILMAN WON'T BELIEVE IT

Hope Diamond Hex Holds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Hope diamond, given to the Smithsonian Institution last year by a New York gem dealer, has a sinister history. It is supposed to have brought death, misfortune or insanity to a long string of owners.

When jewel merchant Harry Winston gave it to the government museum last November he sent it by mail. James G. Todd, 35, was the mailman who delivered the 44-carat diamond.

Since then, these things have happened to Todd:

His leg was crushed by a truck.

While he was recuperating, his wife, mother of their four children, died of a heart attack. In a later accident, Todd was thrown from his car and suffered a head injury.

Wednesday night fire swept four rooms of Todd's suburban home.

"Perhaps I'm actually having good luck—thank God all four children were outside instead of in those rooms."

"If the hex is supposed to affect the owners, then the public should be having the bad luck."

OTTAWA (UPI)—Parliament Hill today waited for the next round in the battle between Newfoundland and the federal government following Premier Joseph Smallwood's decisive Liberal triumph in Thursday's provincial election.

The Liberals took 31 of the 36 seats compared with 32 they held at dissolution. Progressive Conservatives held three, the United Newfoundland Party won two while the Newfoundland Democrats failed to elect a single member.

In a post-election speech, Smallwood reiterated his campaign charges that Prime Minister John Diefenbaker had purposely tried to toughen federal relations with the province because the Newfoundlanders rebuffed him in the previous federal election.

This was only a slight indication of "Joey's" intention to continue his fight. Observers predict a wider possible rift in relations between Ottawa and the newest province.

The greatest interest now lies in Smallwood's decision to introduce a resolution at the first session of the new legislature condemning the federal government's "betrayal" of Newfoundland by not continuing an $8,000,000 a year payment to the province recommended by the McNair royal commission which studied the financial terms of the confederation.

Mr. Smallwood said that if his motion is fully supported by the 36-seat House "I will introduce the resolution to continental Canada."

He said he would travel across the country to do this. But he said "it would not just be a trip across Canada. Canada has become a big boy now. You just don't make all the people aware by just making a trip across Canada."

Johnston Goes 4 Up

VANCOUVER (CP)—John Johnston, 33-year-old real estate salesman, moved into commanding four-hole lead today at the halfway mark of his 36-hole Canadian Amateur Golf Championship semifinal match with Bob Kidd.

Johnston was three up after nine, lost the 10th and 11th but came back to win four of the next five holes and go five up. Kidd won the 17th with par and the two Vancouver Marine Drive clubmates naived the 18th, also with par. The 13th was also halved.

In the other semifinal, Ron Willey of Vancouver was all square with Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., after 12 holes.

Canada's Money Policy Rapped

LONDON (CP)—The Spectator, a weekly magazine, suggests the time has come for the Canadian government to "drop its crazy obsession with monetary policy" and to rely more on direct controls to restore the country's exchange equilibrium.

"Surely it is unsound to encourage a further inflow of foreign capital by raising the bank rate to this absurd level of 6.4 per cent," says Nicholas Davenport, the magazine's financial editor, in a 1,000-word discussion of Canada's monetary policy.

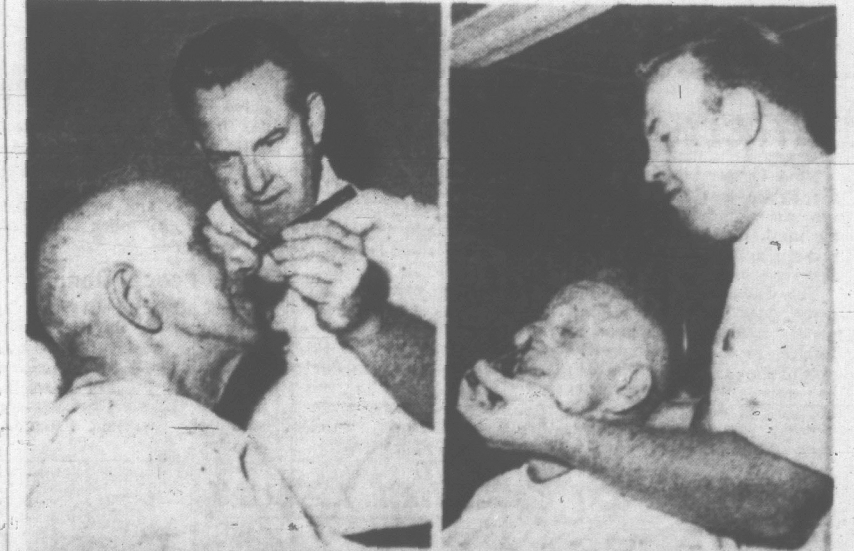

Davenport says the present policy encourages foreign capital to flow into the country and Canadian capital to flow out of the country.

"All this is causing great anxiety in Canada among those who dislike seeing the ownership of so much of the domestic wealth pass into foreign hands."

He adds that last year the sale of securities abroad totalled $680,000,000, of which $600,000,000 or 88 per cent was taken up by the United States.

"This makes Canada extremely vulnerable to any financial or economic crisis in the United States. As soon as trouble develops in Wall Street the liquidation of Canada securities will be the first line of defence for the American speculator."

"And it will be a sad day for Canada if the liquidation falls upon the oil and gas stocks which have already sunk to very low levels."

VIENNA—A teenage Hungarian probed his way across a border minefield with a knitting needle to escape into Austria, police reported today.

The 17-year-old youth's name was withheld to protect relatives still in Hungary. But police revealed the full details of the escape, which took place Wednesday night.

NEW YORK—Former president Harry Truman and comedian Jack Benny will team up again, this time on Benny's television show Oct. 18 via the CBS network.

The announcement said part of the program featuring the pair will be video-taped at the Truman Memorial Library in Independence, Mo. There was no mention of what they will do.

CHAPEL HILL, N.C.—A computation expert says a mechanical brain some day will be used to write adult western television shows.

Dr. Allen J. Perlis of Carnegie Tech made the prediction here Thursday night at an international meeting of computation experts. He said it is one of several probable uses of electronic computers such as Univac.

TORONTO—Dr. Mackinnon Phillips, Ontario provincial secretary and acting health minister, issued a statement saying he had erred in endorsing a home-dispenser fluoride machine.

He withdrew his endorsement of the unit manufactured by an Ontario firm.

The endorsement, in a letter made public last week, said Premier Frost felt "there are

Record Vote Beats Negro Election Hope

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A record white vote smothered the first all-out Negro political campaign in the history of this Mississippi River city of the Deep South.

Russell B. Sugarman, Jr., a 30-year-old Negro lawyer, finished second in a race for public works commissioner that had segregationists predicting what to them would have been a catastrophe.

The final count gave Sugarman 35,237 votes. He lost to a white "unity ticket" candidate, William W. Farris, by about 23,000 votes.

The predicted heavy vote for Negro candidates came as advertised, but the upsurge of the campaign spurred the total turnout Thursday to 129,868. The previous record for a city election was 86,370.

Rev. Ben L. Books, a Negro lawyer and preacher who ranked as a possible victor in the race for juvenile judge, lost by about 21,000 votes. He ran against three white candidates.

Market Stallholders Offered New Space

Nine former stallholders of the public market have been sent plans for an 11-stall open air market on the site of the present building, Mayor Percy Scurrah said Thursday.

The stalls would be open on three sides but covered by a plastic roof. They would be located in a row along one side of the parking lot that will be created when the market building is demolished.

Total cost of the project, proposed last week to city council by Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood, would be $1,500. Mayor Scurrah said assurance that the stalls would be occupied should be obtained before they are erected.

Farmer Construction, which has the contract to demolish the market building, is not expected to start the wrecking job for several weeks due to commitment of its heavy equipment on other projects. The firm has 90 days to clear the site for a parking lot.

NFLD. STARTS NEW WRANGLE

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (UPI)—A new federal provincial wrangle loomed in Newfoundland today—one day after Premier Joseph R. Smallwood's Liberals won a mandate from the people to carry on their fight with Ottawa on special federal aid.

Attorney-General Leslie R. Curtis said here that his department will see that the Notre Dame Bay fishermen whose nets were seized by federal fisheries agents for alleged infractions of regulations will be protected.

Curtis said, "In my opinion, the act of the fisheries inspectors was absolutely illegal." He said he would "be happy to have a test case heard to determine who is right."

Federal Liberals predicted a Liberal landslide in the next parliamentary contest.

Proponents of the "marriage" of the CCF party and Canadian Labor Congress into a new Canadian labor party were not reassured by the defeat of all candidates of the labor-sponsored Newfoundland Democratic Party. The CCF decided not to run in the election and backed the Democrats in the first political test of the CCF-labor alliance.

The win by two of the maverick United Newfoundland Party candidates was not unexpected because they resigned the Conservative party in support of Premier Smallwood's stand.

The only consolation for Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his colleagues was in the fact that the issues which whipped the Newfoundlanders up into Thursday's overwhelming demonstration of loyalty for Smallwood were more or less purely provincial.

The individual character and feeling of the Newfoundland people also sets them apart from other Canadian voters, and the defeat of the Conservatives in the Newfoundland election was not looked upon therefore as any great augury in federal or other provincial elections.

Father of 3 To Undergo Sex Change

WOOTTON, Eng. (Reuters)—A 45-year-old father of three children left his home here Thursday for a lengthy series of sex-changing operations in a London hospital.

Alec Dawson, who was wearing a white sleeveless blouse, a tight-fitting black skirt and earrings, told reporters: "When I come out of the hospital in nine months' time, I shall have changed my sex and my name. After that I shall make a fresh start."

Pushing a hand through his wavy hair, he added: "I have always had feminine characteristics. Even as a youth my friends called me Alice."

Dawson, a garage owner, said for years he had put off treatment for the sake of his family. But finally a London specialist had strongly advised an operation.

Big New Oil Well

CALGARY (CP)—Discovery of a gas well with an estimated absolute open flow potential of about 1,200,000,000 cubic feet, was announced today by the British American Oil Co. Ltd.—The well, B.A. CPR Atlas 7-15 is located in the Dick Lake field, about 35 miles north and west of Red Deer, and 35 miles south of Edmonton.

Steel Peace Denied

NEW YORK (AP)—A spokesman for the Steelworkers Union president, David J. McDonald, said today reports from Gary, Ind., of a settlement in the steel strike "are absolutely without foundation."

Trail that truancy was "a very minor offence."

He said the boy had been punished two days previously for breach of school rules. Brown, he said, was justified in increasing the strapping given Whitelock.

Mr. Cameron said earlier Brown's action was reminiscent of the "principles of punishment in vogue in Nazi concentration camps and is revolting to all decent-minded people."

The charge was laid on a complaint from the boy's parents. His mother had testified earlier that young Whitelock was in hysterics after the strapping.

Paper 'Duped,' Apologizes To Briggs

A new controversy arising out of the lengthy Shrum commission report on the B.C. Power Commission has developed today.

A leading Vancouver newspaper (the Sun), in a front page editorial Thursday apologized to H. Lee Briggs, former general manager of the power board, for its report in its early editions Wednesday, blaming him for "costly errors" of power project construction.

This report was based on Premier Bennett's advance "release" at Courtenay the previous night in which he had said Briggs was chiefly responsible for expensive errors in construction of power commission projects.

The paper confesses it was "duped" by the Premier's announcement. Subsequently the Rate Increase Due to Debt Cost

This was the basis of the original charge by Mr. Briggs, who at the same time claimed the government proposal would mean added debt costs for the power commission which would have to be paid in power rates.

The Shrum commission ruled that the government plan was a fair basis for discussion, although it was subsequently changed considerably before being finally put into operation. It suggested Mr. Briggs' opposition to it was based on a possible misconception and also because of a personality clash with Dr. J. V. Fisher, government economic adviser.

However, the commission sides with Mr. Briggs in his assertion it was brought about because of the government's "clear the direct debt" policy.

The evidence may be summarized... (that) the primary reason for the government proposing the re-arrangement of finances relative to the government cash advances to the power commission was to meet the plan of the government for disposing of the government's direct debt.

This view, says the report, was supported by a memo sent by T. H. Crosby, former power commission chairman, reporting to Briggs on a meeting he had with Dr. Fisher and C. J. Ferber, comptroller-general.

The memo said in part: "I stated we considered it simpler to avoid the complication of this new financing and (suggested) that we continue to service the debt as outlined (in a previous memorandum)."

"Dr. Fisher and Mr. Ferber both stated that this would not meet the requirements of the plan for disposing of the government's direct debt."

The Shrum report pointed out that Crosby's memo was "at variance with the evidence" presented to the royal commission by Dr. Fisher.

"He (Fisher) indicates (in his testimony) that the proposed re-arrangement of finances had nothing whatsoever to do with the government policy in respect to discharging the net debt."

SLAYER DIES WITH SMILE

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Stephen Nash, confessed killer of 11 persons, died in San Quentin's gas chamber today, smiling at the prosecutor who sent him there.

Just before the gas pellets were dropped, Nash said: "Unfortunately I've never been able to live like a man. However, I expect to die like a man."

Then he winked at J. Miller Leavy, deputy district attorney of Los Angeles County.

The gaunt, hypnotic-eyed knifer spent the last two of his 36 years of life in isolation on death row—isolated because fellow murderers sickened of his boast that he killed at least 11 men and boys.

He never had a visitor, and there was no one to claim his body.

Looting Feared In Quake Area

WEST YELLOWSTONE PARK, Mont. (AP)—National guardsmen moved into this earthquake-ravaged area today to prevent possible looting.

The death toll meanwhile reached nine. Mrs. Ray Painter, 42, of Ogden, Utah, died Thursday in hospital. She was hurt when the earthquake split a mountain and sent it thundering down on Rock Creek camp ground and into the Madison River.

Search officials fear other campers may be entombed in that massive landslide. Army engineers are expected to decide soon whether to attempt to move the 50,000,000 tons of rock, earth and debris.

In addition to the known victims, Mrs. Thomas Stowe of Sandy, Utah, is missing and presumed dead. Her husband was killed.

SANDPOINT, Idaho (CP)—Eugene Job of Medicine Hat, Alta., drowned in a slough Thursday only seconds away from rescue by two farmhands who had saved his wife from the top of their submerging car.

PRINCIPAL NOT GUILTY OF ASSAULT

Bare Seat Strapper Freed

CASTLEGAR, B.C. (CP)—School Principal William Roy Brown, who strapped a 14-year-old boy's bare buttocks for playing hooky, was acquitted Thursday night of a charge of assault.

Brown gave eight strokes with a leather strap to the partially bare behind of Anthony Whitelock on the last day of school this year.

Brown broke down and wept when Magistrate T. S. Dawson freed him, saying: "There is no evidence before this court to show that defendant Brown acted otherwise than as a kind, firm and judicious teacher."

The charge was laid on a complaint from the boy's parents. His mother had testified earlier that young Whitelock was in hysterics after the strapping.

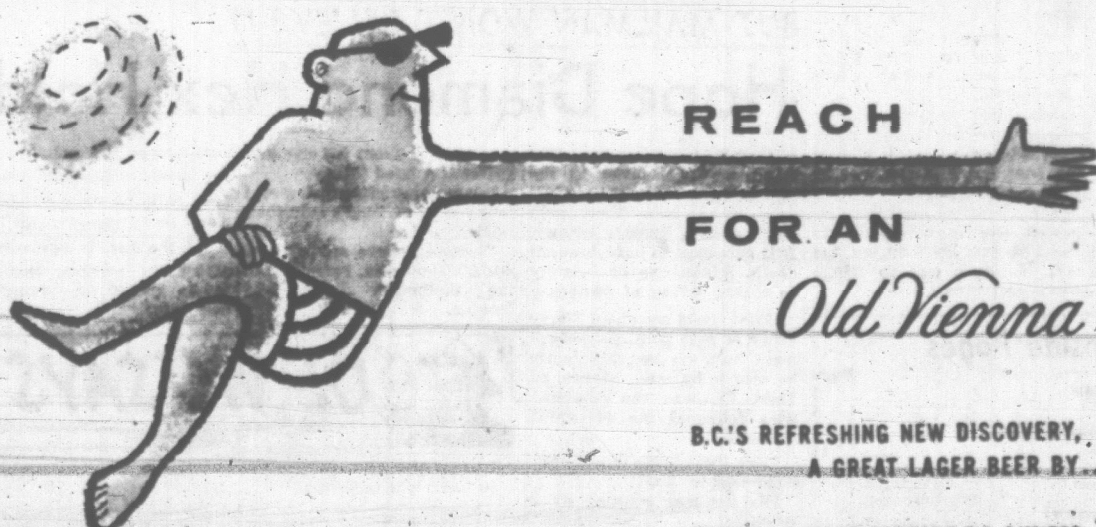

The magistrate said he could not agree with crown

Local Officials See Approval Union Merger

Pulp Workers Vote Aug. 31

Trade union circles here expect to see the birth of Canada's largest trade union at the annual convention in Montreal Aug. 31 of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers.

"The international councils of all three unions have discussed a merger at several meetings in the United States, and when it comes up in Montreal it likely will be approved by the members," said Ed Haw, financial secretary of IWA Local 1-118 here.

It was not known when the other two unions will vote on the merger, but Mr. Haw expected it would be favored by his union. Main strength of the IWA is on the Pacific coast, where 25,000 members have been on strike since July 6.

SOLID FRONT

The three unions combined would give a solid front of 88,000 workers to bargain in the lumber, pulp and paper industry across Canada.

There were no developments in the IWA strike today, with both sides of the dispute having been approached by Dr. John J. Deutsch, University of B.C. economist appointed by Labor Minister Lyle Wicks to act as mediator in the dispute.

Dr. Deutsch spoke with union leaders Tuesday and management representatives Wednesday, and has not been available for comment since.

"It's all in the hands of Dr. Deutsch now," said John Billings, head of Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., representing management in the dispute.

Three Sentenced For Assaulting Police Officer

Three young men were sentenced in Esquimalt court today: one for assaulting a police officer and two for obstructing an officer.

Ronald Johansson, no fixed address, drew nine months on the assault charge; Richard Sanders, also no fixed address, was sentenced to three months for obstructing; and Charles Johnson, Saanichton, received a suspended sentence.

Charges arose out of a scuffle with a policeman Aug. 15 on Head Street. Const. Gordon Jenkins testified earlier he was slugged on the chin by Johansson when he tried to break up a fight between Johansson and another man. Johansson and Sanders also ripped his shirt.

The trio had pleaded guilty. In passing sentence, Magistrate William Ostler said such behavior was "quite inexcusable. Assault is a very serious offence. There is never an excuse."

Johansson had nine previous convictions and Sanders three, mostly for brawling arising out of drunkenness.

Johnson had no previous convictions and "if you have any sense you will make this your last," Mr. Ostler said. Johnson was put on one year's probation and ordered to post a $250 good-behavior bond.

DUKE'S YACHT TO ARRIVE HERE MONDAY

Duke of Edinburgh's Dragon class yacht "Bluebottle" will arrive in Victoria Monday after a weekend of racing in Vancouver waters.

The 29-foot sailer will compete against local yachts and will leave for Vancouver and shipment to England Sept. 7. Skipped by Surgeon-Lieutenant Ross Coles, Bluebottle has won four races against Vancouver boats during the past two weeks.

Shawnigan 'Up in Arms' Over Fire

Residents of Shawnigan Lake are up in arms over the action of two Victoria youths who started a fire on popular Mt. Baldy Wednesday night when they left a couple of smoke bombs.

The fire, which was thought to be under control Wednesday, is now burning over some 15 to 20 acres of timber. Three bulldozers and 50 men recruited by the forest service are fighting the fire.

The childish prank by the two youths "has ruined the area's most popular viewpoint" according to Denis Mason Hurley, owner of the Shawnigan Beach Hotel and a 34-year resident of Shawnigan Lake.

Quite upset over the incident, Mr. Hurley also deplored the manner in which the story of the fire was treated by the Times. "I deplore the levity with which the Times condones the action of a couple of tramps coming in here and setting our best viewpoint on fire. The whole thing was treated as a jolly big joke."

"Everyone in Shawnigan Lake is incensed at the action of these two boys. They shouldn't be taken out to the woodshed for what they did, like the Times suggests; they should be put in jail for what they did and their parents should be made to pay all the costs of fighting the fire."

"This spot which affords a lovely view of the lake area, is extremely popular with tourists as well as local residents, but now, because of the idiotic action of a couple of kids, it will be destroyed for at least 10 years or more. Personally," Mr. Hurley said, "I think a public example should be made of the two culprits."

TIRED TALLULAH HERE FOR REST

Tallulah Bankhead has deserted New York for a "holiday of resting and relaxing" in Victoria's quiet countryside.

The stage actress, famed for her "dahling" southern accent and manner, is staying at a secluded country estate overlooking Esquimalt lagoon, near Hatley Park.

She arrived Wednesday by air "for an indefinite holiday with my old and close friend," Mrs. Dola Cavendish, 501 Belmont Road, a member of the pioneer Dunsmuir family.

She said she has no plans for any social appearances while here.

"I'm just resting," Miss Bankhead is scheduled to return to New York by the end of next month for a television "spectacular" in October.

She arrived here for the incognito visit with her private secretary, Ted Hook.

Saanich Policeman 'Very Sick'

A day-old special fund for injured Saanich detective-sergeant Joseph Armstrong grew to $1,055 this morning.

"This has been a wonderful start," said Police Chief Bert Pearson. "In our line of work, you sometimes get discouraged with humanity but this has given my faith in humanity the biggest lift it has had in years."

The Armstrong children, Patricia, 18, and Donald, 11, visited their parents in a Bozeman, Mont., hospital today for the first time since they were injured in the Yellowstone Park earthquake at the beginning of the week.

The children had been in the care of a family in Idaho Falls, Idaho, but were brought to Bozeman "because their father, who is very sick, wanted to see them and it was felt they could give him a boost," Chief Pearson said.

He added that arrangements have been made to fly the family here as soon as Sgt. Armstrong is strong enough to be transferred to a local hospital. Mrs. Armstrong, who suffered bruises and a broken toe, was allowed to take a "few steps" Thursday.

The fund was established to help the family, which lost all travelling possessions, car, trailer, tent and money in the mountain slide that swept their campsite into Hebgen Lake following the quake.

MEDICAL BILLS

Besides medical bills now facing the family, there is a possibility that terms of insurance will not cover the loss of their belongings in the disaster.

If his injuries prove disabling, Sgt. Armstrong may have to retire from the force without a pension. Now 52, he was too old to enter the superannuation plan when he joined the force.

Donors to the Armstrong fund should send cheques to the Saanich branch of the Bank of Montreal. They should be made out to Chief W. A. Pearson, Detective Robin Stuart or "cash," and should be plainly marked "Armstrong Relief Fund."

Most contributions so far have been in small amounts but a $500 anonymous gift was made Thursday afternoon and another donation of $200 was received today.

CHARLES GUIGUET ... rain, wind, snow

B.C. WILDERNESS

Biologist Completes Rugged Trip

After facing snowstorms of blizzard proportions, high winds and heavy rains in a six-week trip to an unexplored area of British Columbia, Charlie Guiguet, museum biologist, said today he had enough of "wilderness" for this year.

He has returned from the alpine plains of the Spatsizi country, about 380 miles northwest of Prince George, an area still untouched by man.

The expedition was organized by Dr. David Turner, deputy minister of conservation and recreation, and members of his staff, who also accompanied Mr. Guiguet.

They travelled by pack horse train.

"The weather was tough," said Mr. Guiguet. "It was hard to keep dry. It was no picnic."

He said the country is the last big game area of the province. It abounds with caribou, moose, grizzly bear, mountain goat and sheep, and the rivers are teeming with fish.

GOLDEN BIRDS

One of Mr. Guiguet's most important discoveries was a colony of golden plovers which scientists believed only nested in the Arctic tundra. The birds are sometimes seen over Victoria when migrating to South America in fall.

"It's a fascinating territory," he said. "The watershed of some of the big rivers of British Columbia and the Arctic start there."

"On one side of the watershed you catch Arctic fish and on the other Pacific species."

Shrum Appointment Termed 'Way Out' For B.C. Government

Progressive Conservative Leader Deane Finlayson said today the B.C. government is using Dr. Gordon Shrum in the same way that it used the late Gordon Sloan—"to extricate the government from its follies."

Speaking to The Times from Vancouver, Mr. Finlayson said: "The report of the Shrum Royal Commission has considerable significance apart from its contents. It can be compared to the embarrassing situation created by maladministration of the B.C. forestry department which led to the appointment of Hon. Gordon Sloan (as forestry commissioner)."

"The government got into a similar mess over power administration and then asked Dr. Shrum to set up a board to extricate it from past follies."

"Both cases show Premier Bennett's political cunning. They also indicate that a more intelligent and honest administration beforehand would prevent recurrences of this sort of thing in other resource industries."

Mr. Finlayson, however, approved the government's appointment of a five-man B.C. energy board, headed by Dr. Shrum, to advise the government on all phases of energy development, production and use.

"One hope offered by the appointment of this board is that it will in future guide the government to right conclusions—something it has proved itself incapable of doing on its own."

Earlier, Mr. Finlayson described as "un-Christian" a statement by Premier Bennett that the Shrum report accused former general manager Lee Briggs of "mismanagement."

Mr. Finlayson alleged that the premier had "twisted the findings of the commission, thus enabling him to make a new but un-Christian attack on the character and ability of Mr. Briggs."

He said B.C. is indebted to Mr. Briggs for having given the province "an opportunity for a fresh start in producing a sensible power policy for the province."

He said B.C. needs a power policy which will accomplish four things:

1. Promote Canadian ownership and control of future power development.

2. Make the public "partners in this development."

3. Bring power at the lowest possible cost to B.C. consumers.

4. Restore public faith and create harmony where conflict previously existed.

Premier Bennett said in Vancouver Thursday he would not "stoop to answer" charges by CCF leader Robert Strachan over his handling of the Shrum report on the B.C. power commission.

Mr. Strachan had charged the premier with "loathsomeness, cheap, slimy political use of high office" in making statements and handing out excerpts of the commission's report at Courtenay last Tuesday.

The premier released the entire report Wednesday.

He promised the type of situation that developed over the power commission will "never happen again."

"It only happened because the government was not represented on the commission. It was set up by a former government to remain aloof from government."

"But now that (lands and forests minister) Ray Williams and (mines minister) Kenneth Kiernan are on the commission the government will be in close touch with its affairs."

Liberal leader Ray Perrault said the premier's action at Courtenay "is one of the worst incidents in the career of a government which continues to show very little respect for British parliamentary tradition."

Mr. Briggs, who was fired as general manager of the B.C. power commission last November, has since been appointed a member of the new national energy board by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

DIGGING INTO THE PAST

Atomic Age Test to Fix Exact Date of Relics

By WILSON DUFF
Curator of Anthropology,
Provincial Museum

The opportunity to obtain a precise date for the earliest level of the McNeill Bay midden has just been presented to us on a platter. Or more literally, by the discovery of the large platter-shaped hearth of one of the site's first campfires.

From this hearth, uncovered yesterday, we have taken several pieces of charred wood, and such charcoal is the best material for dating by the recently developed "radiocarbon" or "Carbon 14" method. The hearth lies directly on subsoil, with three feet of midden strata over it. Its date will establish accurately the time of first occupation of this part of the site.

The radiocarbon method of dating is a product of the Atomic Age. It was developed about 10 years ago as a result of research in atomic energy. It is based on the fact that all living things contain a definite, known concentration of radioactive carbon.

This "C14" is formed in the upper atmosphere from nitrogen atoms, as a result of the action of cosmic rays. Chemically, it acts just like ordinary carbon ("C12"). It passes into plants in the form of carbon dioxide, and into the animals that eat the plants, and so on. The result is that all of us are to a small degree, and to the same degree, radioactive.

Radiocarbon is unstable. Each one of its atoms eventually gives off a tiny explosion of energy and becomes once again an atom of nitrogen. Physicists have measured the rate of disintegration of C14 and have found that its "half life" is about 5,500 years, that is, half of a given amount of C14 will integrate in that length of time. A measurable amount will still remain even after 35,000 years, which is about the practical limit of this method of dating.

When a living thing dies, it stops taking in carbon, and the C14 in its tissues slowly dwindles away. By measuring the amount of C14 left in any ancient wood, or bone, or shell, the physicist can calculate how long it has been dead. He can also calculate how accurate his answer is, and he gives the margin of error with the age. For example, the radiocarbon date for the bottom of the Marpole midden in Vancouver is 943 B.C. plus or minus 130 years.

In collecting the charcoal sample from the hearth, we had to be very careful that it wasn't contaminated by any other carbon of a more recent age. Tiny roots growing down through it had to be carefully removed. It now lies safely in one of my wife's quart sealers, waiting to be sent off to be dated.

We have never yet had a sample dated by this method. It has to be sent away to one of the very few laboratories on the continent that have the complicated equipment and trained scientists to make the delicate measurements. And it is pretty expensive, which is unfortunate for low budget digs like ours.

We aren't sure when we'll be able to get it done, but when we do it will give us an accurate date for Page One of our story of prehistoric Victorians.

Bits of charcoal will tell the tale.

The body of an unidentified woman, in a white dress, was found floating in a kelp-bed about 20 yards off shore on Dallas Road at the foot of Douglas Street shortly before 3 p.m. today.

It was picked up by an RCMP patrol boat-called to the scene by city police.

City police received a call from two passersby that a body was floating a short distance from shore.

New 50-Star U.S. Flag Unfurled

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hawaii became a state today and President Eisenhower unveiled a new 50-star flag.

Smallwood Plans
'Crusade' After Election Win

OTTAWA (UPI)—Parliament Hill today waited for the next round in the battle between Newfoundland and the federal government following Premier Joseph Smallwood's decisive Liberal triumph in Thursday's provincial election.

The Liberals took 31 of the 36 seats compared with 32 they held at dissolution. Progressive Conservatives held three, the United Newfoundland Party won two while the Newfoundland Democrats failed to elect a single member.

In a post-election speech, Smallwood reiterated his campaign charges that Prime Minister John Diefenbaker had purposely tried to toughen federal relations with the province because the Newfoundlanders rebuffed him in the previous federal election.

This was only a slight indication of "Joey's" intention to continue his fight. Observers predict a wider possible rift in relations between Ottawa and the newest province.

'Something Rotten in the State ...'

"This election," Mr. Smallwood said, "will make the Canadian people realize there is something rotten in the state of Denmark."

The election victory was regarded as a personal triumph for the fiery premier in his continuing struggle with the Diefenbaker government over the financial terms of Confederation.

It was also a highly unfavorable indication of Tory chances in Newfoundland in the next federal contest.

Smallwood emphasized his fervent charges of "betrayal" against Prime Minister Diefenbaker by taking on, and soundly defeating Conservative leader Malcolm Hollett in the latter's own riding of St. John's West.

The fall of this and other ridings in the formerly traditionally Conservative provincial capital was the strongest indication of the intense loyalty Newfoundlanders feel for the man who led them into confederation 10 years ago.

St. John's West, where Smallwood now rules provincially, is the federal riding occupied by Newfoundland's cabinet minister without portfolio William Brown, who with fellow Federal Tory James A. McGrath (P.C.-St. John's East) ardently supported the federal government's stand on the con-

The greatest interest now lies in Smallwood's decision to introduce a resolution at the first session of the new legislature condemning the federal government's "betrayal" of Newfoundland by not continuing an $8,000,000 a year payment to the province, recommended by the McNair royal commission which studied the financial terms of the confederation.

Mr. Smallwood said that if his motion is fully supported by the 36-seat House "I will introduce the resolution to continental Canada."

He said he would travel across the country to do this. But he said "it would not just be a trip across Canada. Canada has become a big boy now. You just don't make all the people aware by just making a trip across Canada."

Mr. Smallwood said that if his motion is fully supported by the 36-seat House "I will introduce the resolution to continental Canada."

It's not expected that the Liberal victory will alter the federal government's "irrevocable" stand on this and other issues which caused the serious rift in relations and resulted in the province slapping two lawsuits on the federal government.

But federal Conservatives were worried that the success of Smallwood's tilt at the Ottawa windmill in this election might see their hold of two out of seven federal seats.

Khrushchev
Turns Down
Invitation

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker said today Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was invited to visit Ottawa during his U.S. tour but was unable to accept.

The brief announcement, issued almost 24 hours after the prime minister had left on a visit to Western Canada, said the Canadian ambassador in Moscow, D. M. Johnson, had been instructed by mail some days ago to ascertain whether it would be possible for the Soviet leader to include Ottawa in his North American itinerary.

"The Soviet government now has replied expressing warm gratitude to the Canadian government for its interest in having Mr. Khrushchev visit Canada, but regretting that previous commitments will not enable him to accept," the statement said.

Tear Gas
Quells
Rioters

GUELPH, Ont. (CP)—About 300 rioting prisoners at the Ontario Reformatory here were stopped with tear gas early today as their ringleaders stormed a dining room door.

Two guards were injured when the prisoners rushed the door. One of the guards, George William Andrews, is in the institution's hospital suffering a possible ruptured kidney.

Superintendent George Sanderson said the disturbance, the third in as many days, was over in 15 minutes.

The prisoners, herded out into a large yard, pleaded they had enough after police pelted them with tear gas.

The 300 prisoners were in the dining room for breakfast when the sudden flareup began. Shouting and chanting, the men threw dishes and plates at windows and milled about. The unarmed prison guards were powerless.

DRIVEN OUT

Provincial police reinforcements arrived just after the rioters had been driven out into the yard with non-rioters.

About 40 men rushed the dining room doors from the prison yard and two guards were injured in the general rush. Police and guards fired tear gas bombs.

POSTMAN VICTIM

Diamond
Hex
Still Holds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Hogg Diamond, given to the Smithsonian Institution last year by a New York gem dealer, has a sinister history. It is supposed to have brought death, misfortune or insanity to a long string of owners.

When jewel merchant Harry Winston gave it to the government museum last November he sent it by mail. James G. Todd, 35, was the mailman who delivered the 44-carat diamond.

Since then, these things have happened to Todd:

His leg was crushed by a truck.

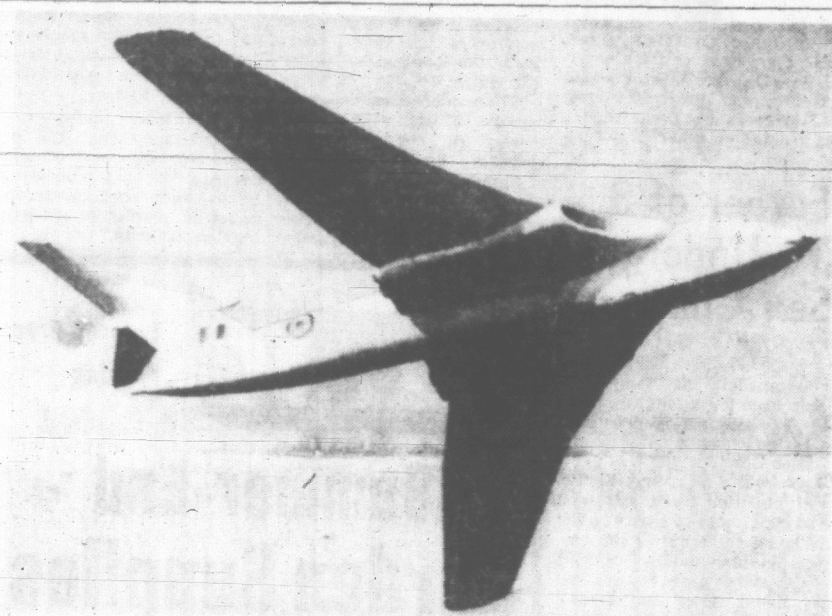

While he was recuperating, his wife, mother of their four children, died of a heart attack. In a later accident, Todd was thrown from his car and suffered a head injury.

Wednesday night fire swept four rooms of Todd's suburban home.

"I don't believe any of that stuff," Todd said, referring to the diamond's legend of trouble.

"Perhaps I'm actually having good luck—thank God all four children were outside instead of in those rooms."

"If the hex is supposed to affect the owners, then the public should be having the bad luck."

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—The government today abruptly withdrew an order for the arrest of Msgr. Francois Poirier, Roman Catholic archbishop of Port au Prince.

The arrest order signalled a widening split between the government and the church in predominantly Roman Catholic Haiti and brought the threat of excommunication for leaders of this Negro republic.

Richardson told a civilian elevator operator he was wanted on the second floor of the building. He stepped off the elevator and escaped down a flight of stairs by the time the operator became suspicious and gave an alarm.

Johnston Goes 4 Up

VANCOUVER (CP)—John Johnston, 33-year-old real estate salesman, moved into a commanding four-hole lead today at the halfway mark of his 36-hole Canadian Amateur Golf Championship semifinal match with Bob Kidd.

Johnston was three up after nine, lost the 10th and 11th but came back to win four of the next five holes and go five up. Kidd won the 17th with par and the two Vancouver Marine Drive clubmates halved the 18th, also with par. The 13th was also halved.

In the other semifinal, Ron Willey of Vancouver was two down to Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., after 18 holes.

SO NOBODY GOT CAUGHT

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver football fans have apparently reformed.

Dry squad detectives at Thursday night's Western Interprovincial Football Union game between British Columbia Lions and Saskatchewan Roughriders did not find one person consuming liquor.

After the season-opening game here between Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Lions scores of empty liquor bottles were found in the stands and police said drinking at games would not be tolerated.

Traffic officers said there were no charges of impaired driving laid after Thursday night's game. There were four after the first game.

Think it Over'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Gordon Shrum says he does not know whether he will accept appointment as chairman of British Columbia's new energy board.

He said in a telephone interview from Copenhagen, Denmark, Thursday night he was taken by surprise when he heard of the appointment to the board that was recommended in a royal commission he headed.

The report of the commission, which investigated the question of public power in the province and the crown-owned British Columbia power commission, was released Wednesday.

Asked about the appointment, Mr. Shrum said: "I don't know whether I will take it or not. I have received no official notification and I will have to think it over."

NO AMBIGUITY

He said there is no reason why conflicting conclusions should be drawn from the royal commission report.

"The report is not ambiguous if taken as read. Our conclusions were drafted with utmost care to avoid ambiguity."

He said he would not comment on H. Lee Briggs, former power commission general manager, other than what was contained in the report.

"It would be most unfair to the other royal commission members to make any statement collateral to our report."

Dr. Shrum is attending a scientific convention in Copenhagen and is not expected back in Vancouver until Sept. 12. He is dean of graduate studies at the University of B.C.

Canada's Money Policy Rapped

LONDON (CP)—The Spectator, a weekly magazine, suggests the time has come for the Canadian government to "drop its crazy obsession with monetary cures" and to rely more on direct controls to restore the country's exchange equilibrium.

"Surely it is unsound to encourage a further inflow of foreign capital by raising the bank rate to this absurd level of 6.4 per cent," says Nicholas Davenport, the magazine's financial editor, in a 1,000-word discussion of Canada's monetary policy.

Davenport says the present policy encourages foreign capital to flow into the country and Canadian capital to flow out of the country.

"All this is causing great anxiety in Canada among those who dislike seeing the ownership of so much of the domestic wealth pass into foreign hands."

He adds that last year the sale of securities abroad totalled $680,000,000, of which $600,000,000 or 88 per cent was taken up by the United States.

"This makes Canada extremely vulnerable to any financial or economic crisis in the United States. As soon as the liquidation of Canada securities will be the first line of defence for the American speculator."

"And it will be a sad day for Canada if the liquidation falls upon the oil and gas stocks which have already sunk to very low levels."

MARGARET CELEBRATES
BIRTHDAY WITH PICNIC

... birthday portrait

BALLATER, Scotland (Reuters)—Telegrams, greetings and flowers poured into Balmoral Castle today for Princess Margaret's 29th birthday.

The princess who, like her mother, was born in Scotland, has spent all her birthdays at Balmoral since she was seven.

Prince Charles, 10, and Princess Anne, 9, usually buy their "Aunt Margaret's" birthday presents here—often a piece of jewelry.

The family present-giving took place at breakfast this morning.

Later, the whole family—the Queen, Prince Philip, their two children and the Queen Mother—was expected to join Princess Margaret in a birthday picnic on the Balmoral estate.

Tonight, after the children were put to bed, a birthday dinner was planned.

TENDERS CALLED

Designed To Eliminate Road Hazard

PARKSVILLE—Tenders for construction of a new Nanoose overpass to replace the present Island Highway bridge south of here will be called in January, according to word received from Dan Campbell, Comox MLA.

It is understood plans for a new structure have been completed, and that footings have been tested at the site.

The present structure carries the highway over the E and N Railway tracks about midway between here and Nanaimo. It comes at a curve in the road, and has been the scene of many accidents, some of them fatal.

SPEED LIMIT

Its danger is further aggravated by the present 60-mile speed limit on that portion of the highway, although speed is restricted to 40 miles per hour for a short distance on either side of the overpass.

The railroad at this point is in a gully with steep banks. Since each end of the overpass is on the brink of the gully, loss-of-control-of-a-car gives the driver little choice but to hit the overpass approach or crash down to the railroad tracks.

GARDEN THIEVES AT WORK

WEST HOLME — RCMP in Duncan are investigating a series of thefts from farms and gardens in this area. Several semi-commercial gardens have been raided the past few nights and assorted produce taken, and 16 Hampshire pullets were stolen from the farm of A. D. Walker.

BEARS WHO CAME TO DINNER

Buttle Lake bears, accustomed to working for their food, are finding easy pickings from campers at the lake.

According to Hank Cameron, Victoria water board employee, the bears have been so busy that food has had to be locked in cans. They have even dumped ice chests, he said.

"I had to stay up all night and throw stones at them to keep them away," he said.

Citizenship Minister Chief's Guest

PORT ALBERNI — Two women of influence—Citizenship and Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough and Chief Jessie Watts of Seshah Indian Band—discussed Indian affairs Thursday at Chief Watts' River Road home.

Mrs. Fairclough is making a tour of Indian villages in her capacity as director-general of Indian affairs, and arrived here from Duncan.

At a meeting in Seshah Hall, Councillor Willie Tatoosh asked for improved housing, education and health facilities for Indians.

Mrs. Fairclough had invited briefs and representations on band problems, and promised full hearings.

Chief and councillors here were complimented by Col. H. Jones, superintendent of Indian affairs, on the way band funds had been used in the area.

Sponsor of the regatta is Canadian Legion Branch No. 10 here. The legion also is responsible, with the co-operation of the Rock and Roll Club here and the City of Nanaimo, for development of the lake as a recreation and swimming area.
